Fireboat plays water on the still-burning blackened hull of the former Queen Elizabeth in Hong Kong harbor after the ship rolled over following a 24-hour fire. The ship, newly-named Seawise University, caught fire while being refitted as a seagoing university. (UPI)

Former Ocean Queen 'Dies' in Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — The once-proud passenger liner Queen Elizabeth, transformed into an 83,000-ton incinerator by 24 hours of fires and explosions, capsized today in Hong Kong harbor halfway around the world from the Atlantic seafarers she once ruled.

"She rolled over and died," said a Marine Department spokesman at the outlying Tsing Yi island anchorage where the 1,031-foot former pride of the Cunard Line was being converted for use as a combination cruise ship and floating university for Chapman College of Orange, Calif.

The Seawise University as the ship had been renamed was lying on her side, her one remaining funnel just above the water line. The other funnel collapsed earlier in the fire.

Firefighting officials said they believed no one died in the fire. Between 800 and 900 workmen were believed aboard the ship when fire broke out Sunday, but most of them got off by the normal exits. About 200 others jumped into the harbor or clambered down ropes and anchor chains. Nine Chinese workmen were hospitalized for injuries and scores more were given first aid.

The cause of the fire was not known, but the ship's last British master, Commodore Geoffrey Marr, said at his home in England: "I do not believe this fire could have started accidentally. The flames spread too quickly for that. It must be sabotage. I cannot understand how it could have spread so quickly unless it started in two or three places simultaneously."

One officer of the Hong Kong fire service also commented that the spread of the fire through the ship's 11 decks was "surprisingly, phenomenally fast."

Investigating authorities said they had not ruled out the possibility of arson.

The fire-blackened bulk lay on the bottom in 50 feet of water, gray smoke still pouring up.

"When it keeled over it was possible to see right through the vessel, from the top right down to the keel, because all 11 decks had collapsed," Gordon Milward of the Marine Department said.

"The possibility that it was deliberately started is purely conjecture but everything has to be considered," he commented. "It could have happened for any of a thousand different reasons."

The 34-year-old ship had been bought by Hong Kong shipping magnate C.Y. Tung for $3.2 million, and a spokesman said another $8 million or $9 million had been spent to convert and modernize her. She was to have sailed to Japan late this month for drydock work, with her first cruise planned for next summer.

Late this afternoon the fire was reported easing, but there was fear that 3,000 tons of heavy fuel oil in the bottom tanks would be freed and pollute the harbor.

Fireboats equipped with emulsifiers were standing by.

Humphrey In Third Try at Presidency

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey formally announced his third bid for the presidency today with a call for reconciliation and rebirth and a pledge to end the war in Indochina.

"Our urgent immediate need is to end the war—and do it now," the 61-year-old former vice president said in announcing his candidacy at Philadelphia's Poor Richard Club.

Minnesota's junior senator, who lost the Democratic presidential nomination to John F. Kennedy in 1960 and the White House race to Richard Nixon in 1968, signed an affidavit that put him in Pennsylvania's April 25 presidential primary.

Most of the other nine candidates already have entered the contest for that state's 182 delegates, third largest delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace were among those filing today.

Others were Sens. Vance Hartke of Indiana, and Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York.

Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota was to file before the 5 p.m. deadline.

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York and former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota had filed earlier.

Humphrey, surrounded by newsmen, labor leaders and members of his family, said the Nixon administration was taking longer "to withdraw our troops than it took us to defeat Hitler."

"Had I been elected in 1968, we would now be out of that war. I repeat that pledge."

Humphrey, considered Muskie's chief adversary, has strong support in the state, particularly among old-line party leaders and organized labor.

Humphrey was to fly to Florida shortly after the announcement to campaign in that state's March 14 primary.

In his attack on the Nixon administration, to be the main thrust of his campaign, Humphrey said:

"Even three years of sustained indifference and error on the part of an administration with limited vision and understanding cannot fundamentally damage the underlying health and vitality of this nation.

"America is not sick! What we lack is leadership and vision...."

In his seven-page text, the former vice president pledged support of equal rights for women, promised to help bring the elderly "back into the mainstream of American life" and to give youth "the full opportunity to help strengthen that sense of community without which we cannot rebuild our nation."

An aide said Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., also would file for the Pennsylvania primary. The deadline for entry is today. Humphrey was scheduled to fly to Tallahassee, Fla., later in the day.

U.S. Planes Damaged By Terrorists

BANGKOK (AP) — Terrorists invaded the base in Thailand for B52 operations in the Indochina war early today and slightly damaged two of the big American bombers, the Thai government announced.

Informed sources in Saigon said there was no curtailment of B52 raids on North Vietnamese positions and supply routes in Laos and Cambodia as a result of the attack. "B52 operations are normal today," said the U.S. Command.

U.S. officials in Bangkok and Saigon refused to discuss the attack. But the Thai government said at least three terrorists slipped into the huge Thai-American base at Utao, on the Gulf of Thailand 90 miles southeast of Bangkok, and put explosive charges under some of the parked bombers.

The announcement said Thai guards killed one of the attackers.

There was no mention of casualties among American or Thai personnel.

Pay Hike Poses Big Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board may not find it as easy to reject a 15-per-cent guideline-shattering pay raise for strike-prone longshoremen as it did to veto a 12-per-cent raise for recession-plagued aerospace workers, board sources say.

"The longshoremen will shut down again, that's all," one informant said. "The board is playing these games with the weak and the small."

Last week United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock complained that the public and business members of the board were picking on aerospace workers because their industry is depressed and they are unlikely to strike.

The board took what at first appeared to be a tough stand, rejecting a 12-per-cent first-year raise for 100,000 workers at five aerospace firms. But it then indicated it is ready to approve the full raise if part of it is deferred until the second year of the agreement. Both years would exceed the board's 5.5-per-cent guideline.

Nevertheless, it was the first contract the board had refused to accept. It previously had approved a 15-per-cent raise for coal miners, who had struck to get it, and the start of a 47-per-cent raise for rail signalmen, who had struck twice.

No sooner had the board disposed of the aerospace matter, which took three days of debate and kept the board from deciding any other matters, than the dock settlement popped up.

Fleming Files For County Prosecutor

Gary W. Fleming

Sedalia's newest attorney, Gary W. Fleming, 407 West 18th, filed Monday morning for the office of Pettis County prosecuting attorney on the Democratic ticket.

Fleming to date is the only candidate for this office.

Candidates for state offices are subject to voter approval in the Aug. 8 primary. Deadline for filing is April 25, according to County Clerk Mary Jane Wilson.

While Fleming is the city's newest attorney, he is a lifelong resident of Sedalia, with the exception of the years he was in school.

He was born at the family home 24 years ago and attended Sedalia schools, graduating from Smith-Cotton High School in 1955. He attended Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield, graduating in 1968.

Fleming attended law school at Washington University, St. Louis, and received his Juris Doctorate degree from there in June, 1971. He is a member of the Missouri Bar Association and the Pettis County Bar Association.

Fleming is a member of the Missouri Army National Guard and will leave Sedalia this week for Fort Sill, Okla., where he will attend the Officers Artillery Basic Course for nine weeks. He is assigned to Headquarters and Headquarters Battery, 135th Field Artillery Battalion in Sedalia.

On his return to Sedalia he will take offices in the Durley & Keating Building on East Fifth.

Fleming's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John J. Fleming. Fleming, single, is a member of the First Baptist Church.

Unusual Weekend Noted By Sedalia Authorities

The Sedalia Police Department experienced an unusual weekend. Activities ranged from catching horses to investigating a case in which a woman had her fingers caught in a mixer.

Mrs. Gladys Ricks, 211 South Stewart, said Saturday morning she was mixing a cake and had three fingers caught in the mixer. The fingers were soon freed, undamaged.

Later in the day officers picked up Henry M. Herndon, 515 North Washington, and William L. Whitley, 410 North Washington, for investigation. They were soon cleared and released.

Freedom was short, however, because they were picked up again in connection with the alleged theft of some items from a pickup truck parked in front of the police station. The vehicle belongs to Officer John DeJarnette of the Sedalia Police Department.

Herndon failed to appear in Municipal Court Monday, and the case of Whitley was continued to Jan. 21. Whitley was also charged with resisting arrest.

The horses were caught Sunday and led to the police station by Officer Glenn Baker. They were tethered in the alley next to the city jail until they were picked up Monday morning by Officer Virgil Frazier, their owner.

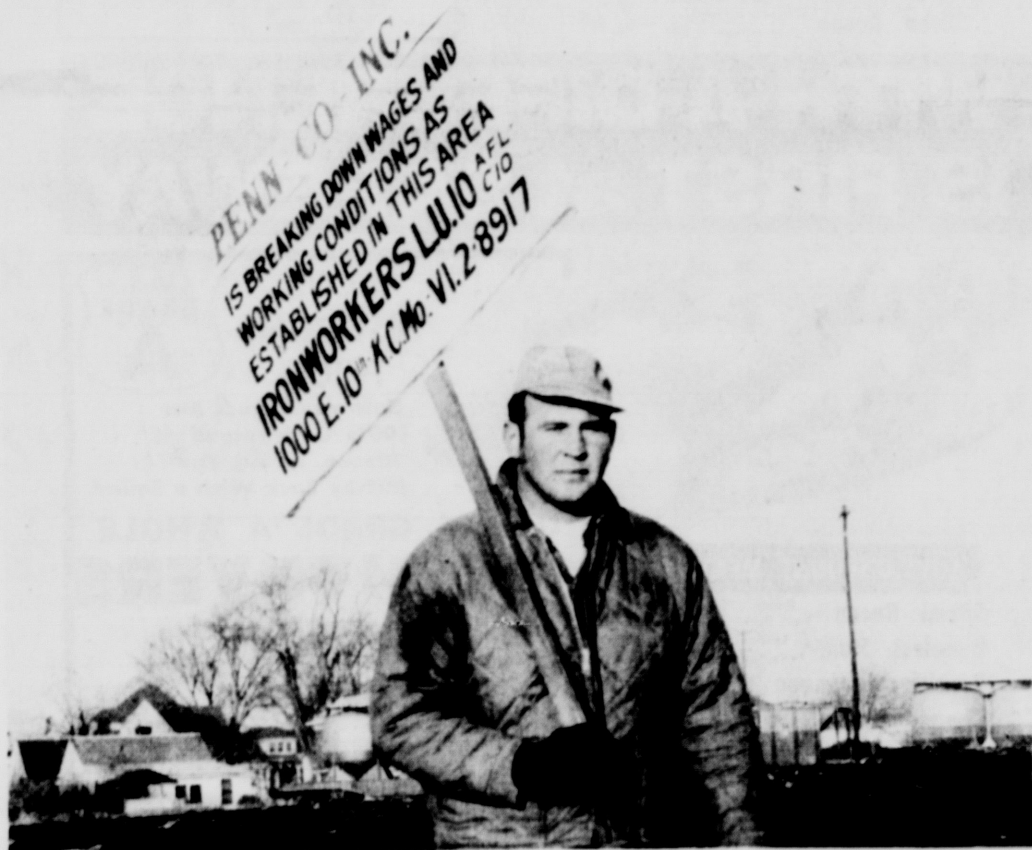

In the only other unusual incident Officer William McKnight Jr., reported someone had kicked a large dent in the left front door of Police Car No. 3.

Police are still searching for a motive for the breaking of a plate glass door at Cash Hardware, 106 West Main. Damage was set at $75.

E. E. Crafton, Route 5, a Cash Hardware employee, reported the breaking of the three-by-seven foot glass when he arrived for work Saturday morning.

Iron Worker

Lyman Lyne, LaMonte, was seen Monday morning at the site of the proposed Sutherland Lumber Co. yard near the MKT underpass on East Broadway. Lyne, who would not answer questions, was carrying a sign which read, "Penn. Co. Inc. is breaking down wages and working conditions as established in this area. Iron Workers L.U. 10 AFL-CIO, 1000 E. 10th, K.C., Mo. VI-2-8917." A spokesman for the union office in Kansas City identified Lyne as a union member but said she did not know "anything about it." (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Book Publisher Disagrees

Billionaire Claiming Fraud

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A guttural, relaxed-sounding voice on the telephone, identified by Howard Hughes' spokesmen as that of the billionaire industrialist emerging from long seclusion, said his purported forthcoming autobiography is a fraud.

"Patently false" and "a totally fantastic fiction" were other terms he used to describe the book in the long-distance conference with seven reporters gathered about a table in a Los Angeles hotel banquet room.

But the publishers, McGraw-Hill Book Co. and Life magazine, repeated Sunday their belief they have "the authentic biography."

All the newsmen agreed as the conference ended that it was Hughes' voice.

In Somerville, N.J., Lawrence Kersta, head of Voiceprint Laboratories and inventor of a system that permits voice identification so accurate it is admissible in court, compared tapes of the conversation with tapes of Hughes' voice made nearly 25 years ago.

Kersta concluded: "It is my opinion that it is indeed the voice of Howard Hughes."

Filed Friday, the two-hour, 40-minute session was broadcast in part Sunday by radio stations and the NBC, CBS and ABC television networks. NBC, which filmed it, made films and sound tapes available to the other outlets.

In a voice that was a little raspy, pausing at times, the 66-year-old "phantom financier," whose fortune is estimated at $2 billion, said also:

—He plans to become less of a recluse, to resume flying and return eventually from the Bahamas to Las Vegas, Nev.

—He definitely expects to have a face-to-face interview with newsmen, intends to have photographs taken for public distribution and wants to resume movie production.

—His health is "tolerable," but he is not happy or content and is hounded by lawsuits and "overhanging threats" such as the alleged autobiography.

The news conference, said by Hughes' spokesmen to be his first in more than 15 years, provided the latest development in a dispute over the authenticity of the 230,000-word book which McGraw-Hill is scheduled to publish March 27. Life magazine plans to serialize three 10,000-word installments before then.

When McGraw-Hill announced in December it had acquired rights to the manuscript, a Hughes Tool Co. spokesman denied within hours that such a book exists.

Asked about Clifford Irving, listed as his collaborator on the autobiography, he said:

"I don't know him. I never saw him. I have never even heard of him until a matter of days ago when this thing first came to my attention."

A reporter remarked that McGraw-Hill and Life have said they satisfied themselves of the autobiography's authenticity.

"Well, I just don't see how it's possible," said Hughes. "I don't see how in the world statements of that kind could be made by people who at least have the resources to investigate and find the truth."

The Hughes spokesman who invited the seven reporters to the interview said they were selected because they had spoken to the industrialist in the past.

They were Marvin Miles, Los Angeles Times; Wayne Thomas, Chicago Tribune; Gene Handsaker, The Associated Press; Vernon Scott, United Press International; Jim Bacon, Hearst Newspapers; and Roy Neal, and NBC correspondent who served as moderator; and Gladwin Hill, New York Times.

Hosts State President

Mrs. Helen R. Epple, president of the Missouri Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs was the guest speaker at the January meeting of the Sedalia club. Mrs. Epple was introduced by Mrs. Wayne Hood, president.

"Key Women Insure Tomorrow" was Mrs. Epple's theme and she stressed that since there are so many changes taking place in the world, it is up to everyone to see that these changes are for the better. "It is not difficult to spend a few hours protesting but it is difficult to make a day by day, sustained effort to make the world a better place," Mrs. Epple stated.

Mrs. Epple is from Clinton, Missouri and has been a member of the State BPW Board for ten years, serving as district director, civic participation chairman, state treasurer, second and first vice president and president-elect of the Missouri Federation before becoming the 1971-72 president.

The program was arranged by the scholarship committee, Miss Opal O'Brian, chairman. Miss O'Brian explained the scholarship program of the local club and introduced Miss Annetta Grainger and Miss Donna Leiter, current scholarship recipients. Miss Grainger is attending Northwest Missouri State College at Maryville where she is a journalism major. Miss Leiter attends Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, and is a home economics business major. The girls spoke of their studies and their outside activities. The Sedalia BPW Club has awarded thirteen scholarships since the program began.

Guests introduced by Miss Emilie Brunjes were Mrs. Reed Grainger and Mrs. Donald Leiter. Special music for the program was presented by the State Fair Community College singers under the direction of Mrs. Geraldine Schrader.

Seated at the head table with Mrs. Epple were Mrs. Richen Price, state recording secretary, Mrs. Jack Blackwell, state world affairs chairman, Miss Hazel Palmer, past national president, and Mrs. Marjorie Garanson, past state president, all Sedalia members.

Invocation for the meeting was given by Major Marjorie Weber and the meeting was closed with the club collect.

Club Notes

State Fair Saddle Club met Thursday at the REA Building for election of officers.

John England was re-elected president. Other officers are Bob Maxwell, vice president; Mrs. Bill Cole, secretary; Mrs. Sam Miller, treasurer; and Miss Debbie Thomas, parade marshal.

Elected to the board of directors were Tom Kenney, Barry Cole, Mrs. Leonard Plint, Miss Beth Holden, Miss Susan Sauer and Mrs. Jack Herndon.

Barry Cole was selected delegate to the state meeting.

New members welcomed into the club were Mrs. Jean Greer, Miss Dena Greer, Clay Ulmer, Lawrence Ulmer, Kent Charles and Miss Jan Charles.

"Take Another Look" was the title of a film presented by assistant chief of the police, Charles Knapp.

Church Notes

"Freedom for Expression of Faith" was the topic of the recent meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of Wesley United Methodist Church presented by Circle No. 2 with Mrs. Bill Barton, leader. She was assisted by Mrs. Kathryn Edwards, Mrs. Jean Smithson, Mrs. Judy Cline, Mrs. Richie Carson, Mrs. Fred Mark, Mrs. Roy Brown and Mrs. Milton Mathew.

Special music was given by Mrs. Barbara Akines soloist who was accompanied by organist Mrs. Jerry Jones.

New Year's greetings were extended by Mrs. A. Hugh Jones, president and a prayer service was given by Mrs. F. T. Rucker.

Greeters were Mrs. Fred Mark and Mrs. Brown and the closing meditation was given by Mrs. Ruby Fisher.

Luncheon was served by Circle No. 3 with Mrs. Mabel Miller chairman.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the First United Methodist Church met Jan. 6 at the church for a pledge service and luncheon.

Following the business meeting, presided by Mrs. Vernon Rodick, a pledge service entitled "Where Am I?" was given by Mrs. T. E. Gasperson.

Mrs. Frank Hanigan, Mrs. T. E. Gasperson and Mrs. Ira Barnes participated in the program.

The scripture was read by Mrs. C. G. Wilson, who lead the prayer of confession.

Mrs. Hanigan introduced a film, "The Questors" which was followed by members signing their pledge cards for the coming year.

After the benediction and table grace, given by Mrs. Wilson, the Lewis Circle hosted a contributive luncheon.

LAMONTE — Women's Society of Christian Service of the United Methodist Church met Friday with Mrs. Clyde Heffelfinger, president, conducting the business meeting.

Officers reports were given and Mrs. R. E. DeFrain read a letter on social relations.

A pledge service was given by Mrs. George Swope which was followed by a noon sack luncheon.

Mrs. Vernon McMullin had charge of the afternoon program which opened with song. Those participating in the program were Mrs. DeFrain, Mrs. William Bolton, Mrs. C. A. DeHaven, Mrs. Lois Curtis, Miss Mary Anderson, Mrs. Heffelfinger, Mrs. Jack Shipman, Mrs. Everett Wing and Mrs. Robert Burke.

Mrs. Alvin Cline served as hostess for the Friday meeting of the United Presbyterian Women held at the Westminster Room of Broadway Presbyterian Church.

"Women of the Bible" was the topic of the program delivered by Miss Marian Keens.

Plans were made for study groups and it was decided to have a rummage sale March 17 and 18.

Polly's Pointers

Anti-curling Hints For Carpet Runners

DEAR POLLY — Bernice can put one-inch-wide masking tape on the back of her carpet runner that curls up. Put it all across, being sure it is even at the edges of the runner, press down firmly, then put a second strip over the first one, press down firmly and have no more turned-up ends. This has really worked on my runners. — MRS. W. D.

DEAR POLLY — Bernice is concerned about the ends of her carpet runners turning up but all she has to do is buy double-sided tape and put it where necessary and her runners will not roll. — RUTH

DEAR POLLY — My mother wants to suggest that Bernice buy fringe that matches her carpet runners that curl and sew the fringe all the way round to remove the curl. Fringe an inch wide or wider gives a decorative look. Heavy-duty thread could be used to sew it on but I used waxed linen carpet thread. Place right sides together and whip the fringe in place, overlapping the ends. — MRS. F. M. G.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the many television and radio commercials directed at us in thick British accents. Why do they inject that phony snob appeal in advertising when trying to sell American products to American consumers? — GERTRUDE

DEAR POLLY — We mothers all know how hard it is to get children's boots and rubbers on over their regular shoes but last winter I discovered a way that really works very well. I saved several old pairs of my husband's socks. I slip these over the children's shoes, tuck their long pants inside, put on their snow pants and then slip on their boots with the greatest of ease. This not only makes the boots go on easily but adds warmth to the children's legs and feet. The same idea works for grownups by putting cotton or nylon footlets over shoes before slipping on rubbers. — MRS. K. B.

Embroidered Men's Fashions

Needlework moved to fashion's front ranks this year, with embroidery popping up all over the Spring fashion scene. At a recent display of embroidered fashions, accessories and home furnishing trends, Bill Miller offered this embroidered swimsuit, executed in the new Spring fabric, chintz, done in brown, gold and bronze with a geometric design. Cabana wrap, inspired by oriental influence in this season's fashions, completes the outfit. At right, for total relaxation at home or on the beach, is Alexander Shields' embroidered caftan, accented all over with floral embroidery; side vents to knees; and topped by a hood. (UPI)

Ann Landers

Some Men Do Want Bird-brained Wives

Dear Ann Landers: My 14-year-old daughter handed me your column and said, "I don't think much of Ann's answer." She was referring to the fellow whose girl friend was beautiful, pleasant, and smiled a lot but she was incapable of discussing meaningful topics and she didn't seem to have any views on anything.

Don't you know, Ann, that a dog with a wagging tail is a better companion than a wife whose head is filled with philosophy, psychology, religion, politics and "meaningful topics?"

A man can go to a textbook for answers, but he won't find a smile or a pleasant disposition there. I would not have said, as you did, that the girl had a sawdust head. You should be ashamed of yourself for putting her down. — Another Sawdust Head In Columbus

Dear Columbus: Bravo to your 14-year-old daughter for challenging me. There is, indeed, something to be said for the pleasant girl who isn't up on things, and it's true she might be the ideal wife for the man who doesn't wish to be challenged. Isn't it lucky that all men don't want the same kind of women? The problem surfaces when a man marries a dolly for her looks and THEN realizes she has nothing else. That's when the REAL trouble begins.

Dear Ann Landers: Why do people chase after fire trucks? I wonder if they realize that their morbid curiosity can cost lives. It happened exactly that way last Friday night.

The fire alarm went off about midnight. My husband is a volunteer fireman and he went immediately to do his duty. It was a night of tragedy. A small boy lost his life — needlessly. I say needlessly because the morbidly curious who followed the fire trucks created such a traffic jam it was impossible for the firemen to refill their tanks with water. The tankers were on hand, but the spectators' cars had them blocked. It took 15 minutes to clear the road. In those 15 minutes the house was engulfed in flames and the little boy was burned to death.

Why anyone would want to see destruction and grief is beyond me. Maybe if I understood it I wouldn't be so bitter. Can you explain it? — V. F.'s Wife

Dear Wife: I can explain it in a word. Excitement. Most people's lives are uneventful — and dull. A fire is something to talk about. It's an event. Sad, but true, with all the wonders of the world, some people chase fire trucks for fun. It's also illegal, I might add. A driver can be arrested for following an emergency vehicle — and he deserves to have the book thrown at him.

Dear Ann Landers: Am I unreasonable? I've been married 18 years to a salesman. We have four children. I love my husband and he loves me. The problem is his drinking with customers "to get an order." I don't mean a social cocktail. I mean getting bombed and staying out 'til 2.00 a.m. Is this part of the job? He says it is.

When things are going well he says I'm the greatest wife in the world for putting up with him. And I must admit, he's a lovely guy — when he's sober. But lately his drinking with customers "to get an order" is getting to me. How about it? — Woodbridge Wife

Dear Wood: Nobody has to booze it up — for ANY reason, unless he wants to. Ginger ale is available in every bar in the world. That customer routine is a weak excuse for a man with a weakness. The best salesmen are not boozers. They are workers.

Note Theft From Arms Shipments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says 40 incidents involving arms, ammunition and explosives thefts occurred in a five-month span during shipments through the states last year.

The list, supplied to the House Commerce Committee and inserted deep in recently published records of a transportation subcommittee hearing, includes reports of missing machine guns, pilfered pistols and thousands of rounds of stolen or lost ammunition.

Cases range from one at East St. Louis, Ill., involving 74 grenade housing assemblies that vanished from a boxcar containing 150,000, to one at Concord, N.H., concerning a stick of 40 per cent gelatin dynamite stolen from a van.

Other samples from the list, covering Jan. 8 through May 27 last year.

—Wilmington, N.C., 2,000 rounds of .45-caliber ammunition marked for Bandar, Shahpur, Iran, were lost between Washington, D.C., and Wilmington.

—Aniston Army Depot, Ala., 37 containers received from Norfolk, Va., via a motor line, inventory disclosed 441 M14 rifles missing; seals on the containers were intact and boxes in the containers were banded.

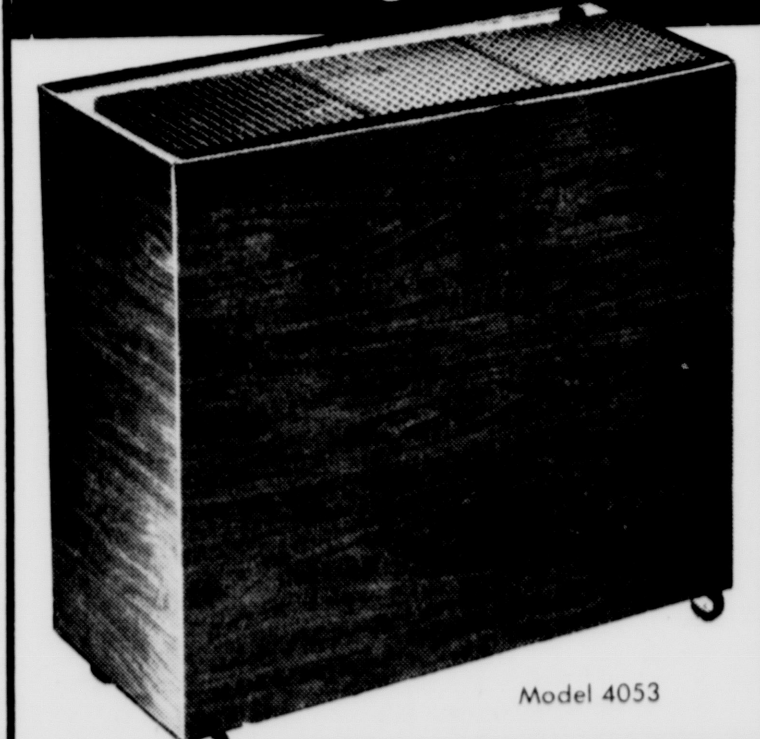

—Bellwood, Ill., three 81mm mortar shells stolen from railroad car when shipped from Lexington, Ky., to Camp McCoy, Wis.

—Letterkenny Army Depot, Chambersburg, Pa., 5,000 rounds of .22-caliber ammunition stolen from rail car bound for West Point, N.Y.

Rogers Takes Care To Avoid Illnesses

WASHINGTON (AP) — William P. Rogers says "I try to do everything that has to be done" as secretary of state, but he takes care not to let the burdens of office push him to the point of physical breakdown.

"I try to take into consideration that unless you have good health, you can't do a job," Rogers told an interviewer in talking about his personal life in one of the world's busiest posts.

He rated exercise as important, and said he often swims in a small pool at his suburban home after work.

"Fortunately I haven't been sick," he added. "I haven't missed an appointment, and I don't believe I've been late for one" in three years as President Nixon's foreign-affairs chief.

Appointments for a secretary of state total high in this jet age. Aides figure that since January 1969 Rogers has had 75 meetings with heads of state, 96 with heads of government and 386 with foreign ministers, in addition to the usual sessions with Washington-based envoys, legislators, other U.S. officials and private citizens.

He has logged 302,814 miles in traveling to parleys outside Washington, about the same 100,000-mile-a-year pace recorded by predecessors Dean Rusk and John Foster Dulles.

Rogers said this is probably too much touring about but "there is no way to avoid it." If he doesn't go to conferences abroad, he said, they would get downgraded too much because other foreign ministers then wouldn't go either.

At 58, tall, trim and blue-eyed with a receding gray hair, Rogers plainly likes his diplomatic assignment. He has made known his willingness to stay on if Nixon wins re-election.

A big-time New York lawyer in private life, Rogers said he finds being secretary of state more taxing than his earlier role as attorney general in the Eisenhower administration because "there are so many things that you have no control over at all."

At the Justice Department, he said, one could schedule actions but at the State Department "you have many events totally out of your control—and even if you don't cause them, you're blamed for them."

Man Charged After Firing Fatal Shots

WRIGHT CITY, Mo. (AP) — An unemployed rural Wright City man, Irvin Francis Owens, 24, has been charged in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Myrtle Logan.

The body of Mrs. Logan, 66, was found Thursday in a field with two gunshot wounds of the head. She had been abducted from her small grocery store a week ago.

Warren County Sheriff Melvin Twiehaus said robbery was the apparent motive as about $60 was missing from the cash register. Mrs. Logan had been having dinner with her husband, Forest, in their living quarters at the rear of the store. She went to help someone who came in and was then abducted.

Owens became a suspect, the sheriff said, when it was learned he disappeared the night of the slaying.

Adult Discussion Series Is Planned

The first of a five-session adult discussion series for parents to increase their understanding of children and develop better skills in dealing with them will be held at 7 p.m., Jan. 20, at State Fair Community College.

The five meetings will be held every other week and the group will explore proven methods for the constructive discipline of children.

Leading the discussion group will be Ken Marlin, senior staff member of the Sedalia Counseling Center. The program was developed by the Parent Education Association, Inc., and is supported by the Mid-Missouri Mental Health Center.

The purpose of the group sessions is to provide acceptable guidance in such problems as family conflicts, blocked communication lines between parents and children, the development of greater respect among family members and to win easier cooperation of all ages with less parental pushing.

Also to be covered in the sessions will be everyday problems faced by parents such as bedtime struggles, messy rooms, temper tantrums, the failure to do chores, lying and stealing, dawdling, swearing and others.

Marlin told The Democrat-Capital that for many years parents had been accused of a wide variety of problems without any training in how to cope with the changes in children and society. He indicated that from the course, parents can learn what modern methods may accomplish in handling sophisticated children in a modern age.

Marlin explained that the program is not therapy. Its thrust, he said, was educational in intent and was for normal parents who wish to study, discuss and learn to apply constructive child management techniques with their normal children.

Included in the presentation will be a special system of child discipline which parents may accept or reject depending upon its applicability to their family needs.

A modest tuition fee to cover the cost of study materials, worksheets and other information will be charged. Persons interested in attending the course should contact Mrs. Ruth Schaeffer at Bothwell Hospital at 826-8833, extension 89. The deadline for enrollment is Jan. 18.

Insurance Against New Strike Sought

EL DORADO, Kan. (AP) — Action to insure against a repetition of last year's costly dock strikes was urged today by Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kan.

Speaking at Butler County Community College, the Kansas Republican said the threat of renewed longshore strikes "hangs like a Sword of Damocles over wheat and feed grain farmers who depend upon dock service for export opportunities and better farm prices in 1972."

Pearson said last year's dock strikes cost wheat farmers $100 million in lost overseas sales, while feed grains and soybean producers lost almost $75 million.

"California fruit and vegetable farmers watched $40 million in perishables rot on the docks," Pearson said, "while a few thousand longshoremen remained on strike."

Pearson said the Senate Labor Subcommittee has held hearings on a bill to resolve emergency labor disputes.

"The record of these hearings is unmistakable," Pearson concluded. "Action should be taken promptly to insure that dock strikes or other disputes which cost the economy millions can be resolved equitably without serious interruption of services."

High School Students Work For Tax Measure

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Fifty high school students have banded together here to work for voter approval of a school tax measure which has become embroiled in an antibusing dispute. Busing isn't involved in their effort, they say, schools are.

The core of a loosely knit organization called KOSO—Keep Our Schools Open—the group is dedicated to passage of a once-routine annual mill levy which will provide about one-third of the Oklahoma City School District's budget for the current academic year.

"Most of the parents are looking to us," one member of KOSO said.

"They have a super organization being developed (to back the levy), but by the time they get organized the election will be over."

"It's the way of adults."

Antibusing leaders seized on the millage election last year as a means of showing disapproval of federally ordered busing of students to achieve racial balance in Oklahoma City.

The levy was approved, but with antibusing forces active there was a strong showing against it in an election which drew a heavy turnout of voters.

Sentencing Is Regarded 'Proper' By High Court

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Supreme Court held today Herman Joseph Flood Jr., was properly convicted in two Greene County murder cases and sentence to life imprisonment.

Flood pleaded guilty to killing Victor Spinetto and Virgil Usrey on Dec. 15, 1957.

The high court said it was clear his guilty pleas were voluntary and that his rights had not been infringed in the court of Circuit Judge Douglas W. Greene.

In a concurring opinion, Judge Robert T. Donnelly called attention to a recent ruling by the 8th Federal Circuit Court of Appeals.

He said if Missouri trial judges would follow the recommendations in that opinion, it could cut down on the number of post-conviction proceedings under a Missouri Supreme Court rule which has added a heavy burden to the Supreme Court criminal docket.

In other decisions the court also:

Upheld the murder conviction and life sentence imposed in Stoddard County on Lee Watson for a Dunklin County killing. Watson said he was brought to Missouri from Mississippi illegally but the court said it could not inquire into the validity of extradition proceedings.

Decided James Z. Bradley had a fair trial and knew what he was doing when he

Legislature Reconvenes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Both houses of the Missouri Legislature were to reconvene late today but the big news was reserved for a night committee meeting.

The Senate Employment Security Committee will tackle an unemployment compensation bill to comply with federal requirements. It has been described as a must by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, business groups and the State Labor Council, AFL-CIO.

Two labor senators, however, have said they will try to tack on some amendments desired by labor — elimination of the present waiting week before benefits are paid and payment of compensation during a company lockout.

Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, majority floor leader, said the Senate record would be kept open as long as necessary tonight in order to get the bill on the Senate calendar for debate Tuesday and possible passage Wednesday.

If the bill does not pass quickly, sponsors say Missouri business would be penalized by about $140 million more a year in payroll taxes and jobless workers who have exhausted their benefits would be unable to collect an additional 13 weeks of compensation.

The Senate was to reconvene at 4 p.m. and the House an hour later to receive more new bills and have one roll call so members can get their $10 daily expense money.

Girl Is Injured In Two-Car Crash

Stephanie Nichols, 18, 2519 Wing, was taken to Bothwell Hospital for facial injuries following a two-car accident at Highway 65 and North Grand Sunday afternoon. She was treated and released.

She was a passenger in a 1968 Pontiac driven south on Grand by Steven Arnold, 16, 2610 Anderson. The Arnold car was in collision with a 1971 Chrysler driven east on Highway 65 by George Wallace Smith, 63, Kansas City, Kan.

According to the Highway Patrol, the Arnold car apparently crossed Highway 65 in the path of the Smith car. The front of the Arnold car struck the right side of the Smith car.

The youngsters fear that with a year to fully organize against the levy, antibusing forces might be able to bring about defeat of the millage.

Leaders of the fight against the levy contend a strong showing of disapproval would convince the federal courts to back away from the busing order.

The youngsters fear defeat would mean a shutdown of the schools or severe cutbacks in areas other than busing. They say appeals to the school board, the city council, the mayor and the governor to take a strong stand for the levy have gone unheeded.

"We realize the opposition is organized now," said young Mark Shanker, a senior at John Marshall High School. "And they got 45 per cent against the millage when they weren't organized."

The youngsters already have representatives involved from all 10 high schools in the district.

They plan to canvass door-to-door, conduct telephone campaigns, provide free transportation to the polls and get involved in as many debates on radio and television as possible.

Their campaign will end just before the Jan. 25 vote with a giant parent-student march and rally.

pleaded guilty in the midst of his trial for fatally wounding St. Louis Policeman Thomas Mulrooney while robbing Peter Chip and his Tavern at 1544 N. Ninth St. on March 16, 1956. Three concurrent life terms were imposed.

Decided Kenneth Gary Lietz was not entitled to $65,000 in damages for injuries suffered when a gym bar he was using slipped and threw him to the floor on his tailbone. Defendants were Snyder Manufacturing Co., which made the gym bar, and Central Hardware Co. of St. Louis, which sold it.

Upheld the conviction and 45-year sentence of Joseph Warren Jr. in St. Louis Circuit Court for forcible rape. Warren had earlier convictions on charges of burglary, larceny and first degree robbery.

owner, told police the only item missing from the store was a .22 caliber rifle that had been sold to a customer. Cain did not know at the time whether the customer had taken the weapon before the incident. A police spokesman told The Democrat-Capital the glass had been broken by two large rocks, but there were no signs of entry.

Miriam Niday, 49, 2614 Anderson, reported Friday her red cashmere coat with a mink lined collar, valued at $190 to $250, was taken Dec. 10 at a Bothwell Hospital staff party, held at the hospital.

Police responded to a "Crime Alert" call that three boys were tampering with a telephone outside the Sedalia Bus Depot, 617 South Kentucky, at 10:18 p.m. Friday. When police arrived at the depot the telephone had been pried from the wall and was on the ground, said a department spokesman. Charles Lemmons, 610 South Kentucky, told police he saw the youths run west down an alley between Sixth and Seventh. A search of the area yielded no clues.

Anita Grinstead, 35, 408 East Boonville, reported cosmetic products, valued at $20, were taken from her car while it was parked on the Broadway Lanes parking lot, 2119 West Broadway, late Friday evening or early Saturday morning.

Miss Grinstead told police her car was unlocked and her radio aerial had been broken.

Wray E. Klein, 1101 East Fourth, reported Sunday morning someone took $55 worth of clothing from his car while the car was parked at Main and Grand.

H. J. Heimsoth, 1500 East Ninth, reported Sunday morning someone stole a tire and wheel from his car.

Ron Martin, 314 East 13th, reported someone broke the antenna off his car while he was attending a movie Saturday night.

No Survivors Are Located From Ship

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP) — Searchers have found no signs of life in the floating debris from an African freighter which sank in the stormy North Pacific west of Vancouver Island. They say they fear all 42 persons aboard were lost.

Two inflatable life rafts and a life ring bearing the name of the ship, Dona Anita, were spotted in the wreckage about 120 miles west of the island Sunday.

A spokesman at the Canadian Rescue Center here said a U.S. Coast Guard ship in the area reported no sign of the 41 crew members and the captain's wife, the only passenger.

The search continued today.

Charles Hearn, Glenn Steinkuhler, Clarence Weber, all of Sweet Springs; John Redkop, Concordia, all were admitted to Sweet Springs Community Hospital.

Mrs. F. W. Thompson and infant son, Sweet Springs, were dismissed from Sweet Springs Community Hospital.

Mrs. Oscar Noel, Sweet Springs, entered Research Hospital, Kansas City, Monday.

Sedalia Girl Hurt In Hunting Mishap

Marjorie Mumbower, 15, injured in a firearms accident near LaMonte Sunday afternoon, has undergone surgery at Bothwell Hospital and was reported in satisfactory condition Monday.

Miss Mumbower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Mumbower, 409 Dal-Whi-Mo, was rabbit hunting with three companions when a 12-gauge shotgun being carried by Robin Curry, Walnut Hills, accidentally discharged. The charge struck Miss Mumbower in the lower left leg.

She was taken to Bothwell Hospital by the Moore Funeral Home ambulance.

Her other two companions were Ernie Keele and Glenda Smith, addresses not available.

Sales Tax Check Not Quite What City Expected

Despite retail Christmas sales which were estimated by the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce to have been up by 12 per cent over 1970, the latest check received from city sales tax collections was less than what was expected by city officials.

City Clerk Ralph Dedrick said Monday his office had received a check for $50,740.40 for the collection period of Nov. 26 through Dec. 22. Dedrick stated that he had expected a larger check because of the massive spending by consumers during the pre-holiday period.

"Next month we undoubtedly will receive a check which will include quarterly sales, annual sales and bi-annual sales," Dedrick said.

The previous check received by the city amounted to $74,364.02.

Since June 1, the city has received $491,157.54 in city sales tax revenues.

Gets 60th Permit

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — It wasn't anything particularly new when L.B. "Pat" Pattillo came to the City Hall last week and obtained a 1972 plumber's license from City Plumbing Inspector Charles Roster.

Roster noted it was the 60th time that Pattillo had purchased such a license in St. Joseph.

Births

Son, to Mr. and Mrs. John E. Stratton, 916 South Vermont, at 12:58 a.m. Sunday at the University of Missouri Medical Center, Columbia. Weight, 8 pounds, 13 ounces. Named John Edward Stratton II.

The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William Hopkins, 1610 West 13th, and the paternal grandmother is Mrs. Daisy Stratton, 115 East Jackson.

Son, to Mr. and Mrs. Steven Weber, Route 2, at 10:14 p.m. Sunday at Bothwell Hospital. Weight, 10 pounds, 14 ounces.

Police Court

The following persons were charged with careless and imprudent driving: Raymond W. Talbot, 401 East 19th, fined $10 and granted a stay; Kenneth D. Clevenger, address not available, forfeited $25.

The following persons were charged with disorderly conduct: Donald Van Buren, 121 East Pacific, fined $25; John Sommers, 1421 East Sixth, fined $25.

Henry Herndon, 515 North Washington, petty larceny, failed to appear.

William L. Whitney, 410 North Washington, petty larceny and resisting arrest, continued to Jan. 21.

Glenn R. Sinden, 1300 East 18th, illegal possession of intoxicating beverage and no license plate lights, fined $25 on the liquor violation while the license plate charge was dismissed.

Wray E. Klein, 1101 East Fourth, driving while intoxicated, fined $100.

County Recorder

Is Hospitalized

Another county official suffered an injury which required hospitalization, bringing to three the number of Pettis County Courthouse veterans who have suffered illness or injury in less than one year.

County Recorder of Deeds Reno Johnson, 417 West Fourth, suffered a broken hip in his home at 10:30 p.m. Sunday after arising from a chair.

A Bothwell Hospital spokesman listed Johnson's condition as good. He underwent surgery at noon Monday.

Only a few weeks ago, Presiding Judge of the Pettis County Court J. H. Green was released from Bothwell Hospital following lengthy recuperation from surgery which resulted in the amputation of one leg.

Last spring Western District Judge Zeb Thomas was hospitalized in Kansas City for leg and back troubles.

Louis Harris Survey

McGovern Gains Are Minimal

By LOUIS HARRIS

In the year since he officially declared his candidacy for the Democratic Presidential nomination, Sen. George McGovern has moved up only a statistically insignificant margin — from 4 to 6 per cent — as the first choice of rank-and-file Democrats. Furthermore, he has lost ground steadily in trial heats against President Nixon among likely voters of every affiliation.

The most encouraging political news for the South Dakota Senator may be that he receives proportionately greater support from those sectors of the Democrat electorate most likely to come out and vote in the primaries: voters who live in the suburbs, the college-educated and those with incomes of $15,000 a year and over.

Nonetheless, McGovern's first-choice preference (8 per cent) among Democrats in the top income bracket is still only one-quarter of the $15,000-and-over group who are for Senator Muskie (32 per cent). The 12 per cent McGovern receives of first-choice votes among those who identify themselves as Democrats and Jewish, a traditionally liberal group, is only one-third as high as the 36 per cent who prefer Muskie. And McGovern's 10 per cent among Democrats with a college education falls far short of the 26 per cent who prefer Muskie.

Here is the trend of first choice preferences for Senator McGovern among rank-and-file Democrats over the past year:

	Prefer McGovern as Democratic Nominee
	Total Democrats	Total Independents
November 1971	6	5
September	4	4
August	4	4
May	3	4
March	5	6
November 1970	2	2

After his announcement a year ago December, McGovern appeared to gain some ground during the winter months. But by summer, he seemed to lose momentum and his support flattened out at 4 per cent. During the last two months of 1971, there was a marginal shift upwards to his top mark of 6 per cent among Democrats.

The results of trial heats pitting Sen. McGovern against President Nixon and Gov. George Wallace among likely voters over the past year show the Senator going downhill. Consecutive cross sections of voters, including a larger than normal sample of 3,258 likely voters in November, were asked: "Suppose for President next year it were Richard Nixon for the Republicans, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota for the Democrats, and Gov. George Wallace as an Independent. If you had to choose right now, who would you vote for?"

	Nixon-McGovern-Wallace Trend
	Nixon	McGovern	Wallace	Not Sure
	%	%	%	%
November 1971	49	31	12	8
August	48	33	13	6
May	47	33	11	9
April	46	36	13	5
February	45	34	12	9

Part of the reason for the decline in McGovern's showing, of course, can be traced to the comeback of President Nixon on the heels of his proposed China trip and wage-price freeze announcements. But part of the McGovern problem is also the result of his inability to build up support among certain key groups:

— A number of political observers have equated the enthusiasm for Sen. McGovern in 1972 among young people to that generated by Sen. Eugene McCarthy in 1968. Yet the Harris Survey shows that among the under-30 voting group, McGovern polls no better than 38 per cent, identical to the Nixon vote among the young. In contrast, Sen. Muskie now leads Mr. Nixon among the young by 44-34 per cent.

— Two sources of political strength for McGovern are people with incomes of $15,000 and over and voters who classify themselves as Jewish. Yet in the electorate as a whole, McGovern loses the $15,000-and-over to Nixon by 31-58 per cent. He wins Jewish voters by 60-29 per cent, but this is well behind Sen. Humphrey's showing with the same group, which the latter carries by 77-17 per cent. Sen. McGovern also loses the vote of the college-educated to Nixon by 24 points, 32 to 56 per cent. Muskie also trails Nixon among the well educated, but by a lesser 39-50 per cent margin.

— With more traditional pockets of Democratic Party strength, Sen. McGovern does scarcely better. He carries the black vote by only 57-26 per cent, compared with 64-21 per cent for Muskie. McGovern loses the union vote by 32-46 per cent, while Muskie takes it by 44-38 per cent. McGovern loses the under-$5,000 income group solidly behind Sen. Kennedy.

By any measure, the McGovern candidacy simply has not yet caught hold, after over a year of trying. His supporters liken his campaign to that of Sen. McCarthy's four years ago. But one of the problems for McGovern is that this time there is no incumbent President in the White House who is both a Democrat and under political duress for continuing an unpopular war. The ideological lines are far from clear. This situation reduces Sen. McGovern to trying to run essentially on a personality basis, and, on this core, he simply has not captured the popular imagination.

FOOD &amp; FIBER NEWS

University of Missouri Extension Centers
Henry - Johnson - Lafayette - Pettis

Census Bureau

Shortly after the first of January 1972, the Bureau of the Census will be mailing out "type of farm" survey report forms to a selected group of farmers.

There will be nine different survey forms used. One each for cash grain, tobacco, cotton, potatoes, sugar and other specialized field crops, vegetables, fruit, livestock, dairy and poultry.

Each form is designed to collect information pertinent to that particular type of farm enterprise. Each form is designed by Sections so that if the answer to the lead question is "no" the farmer may skip to the next section.

The trends shown in the 1969 Census of Agriculture indicate that there is an increasing degree of specialization. The completion of the "type of farm" survey report forms will help obtain truer and more complete picture of this specialization and may set the pattern for future censuses of agriculture.

Swine Buildings

Wet swine buildings in winter months are cold and drafty, resulting in lower feed efficiency. The problem is usually lack of insulation and ventilation. Over the long pull, an investment in insulation and a minimum ventilation system can solve the problem. The insulation also has great value for summer feeding by keeping the building cooler. Ceiling insulation should be three inches and side walls two inches. Open front may need to be partially closed to reduce drafts.

Winter ventilation can be done with 2-volume fan with thermostat control or a variable speed fan with controls. A duct system may be needed in some buildings to equalize air flow. These ducts should run the full length of the building and next to the open front side with a 1 square foot cross section per 1000 cfm.

The amount of moisture to be removed from the building usually determines the minimum air-flow. The minimum air-flow requirements will vary with temperature difference between outside and inside air. Cold outside air when warmed up will absorb large quantities of water. Therefore, with colder outside temperatures, minimum air-flow rates will be lower than when outside temperatures are close to those inside the building.

Outlook For Hog

The latest USDA survey of hog producers showed a favorable outlook for the nation's $6 billion pork industry. Farmers have trimmed hog production enough to insure profitable prices for hogs in 1972, but there will still be an abundant supply of pork for consumers.

The official report, released on December 22, showed that farmers had 54.4 million market hogs and pigs on hand December 1, 6 per cent less than one year before. These hogs and pigs will provide most of the market receipts during the seven months from December 1 through June 30.

The report also showed that U. S. farmers planned to cut sow farrowings during this winter and next spring (December-May) 10 per cent below the year-ago level. Pigs from these farrowings will make up most of the market supply of hogs during the last half of the coming year.

Actual farrowings probably will differ slightly from these intentions. But we now expect marketings in 1972 to fall about 7 per cent short of the 1971 volume. If so, prices for barrows and gilts at central markets may average between $22 and $23 for the year, which would be about $4 higher than in 1971. Such prices would be within a dollar or so of the averages for the good years of 1965, 1966, 1969, and 1970.

Poinsettia Care

The poinsettia, a living symbol of Christmas, must be properly cared for in the home if it is to retain its beauty. Proper care means maintaining conditions as they were in the greenhouse.

Those conditions are a temperature of 60 to 65 degrees, moderate humidity, full sunshine, uniform moderate soil moisture, and no drafts.

Place the poinsettia plant near the sunniest window and water regularly, at least every other day. Use just enough water so it will trickle through the drain hole in the bottom of the pot. That's about one cup of water for a six-inch pot. About half that much water is needed for a five-inch pot.

Although it takes a certain amount of luck, poinsettias can be placed outdoors during the summer, then be brought back into the home to produce brilliant red foliage for next year's holiday season. The procedure to follow is:

After most of the green leaves have dropped — in January or February — give the plant a rest. Do this by placing the pot on its side in a cool storage cellar or room until March or April. The temperature should remain above freezing.

To start growth, in early April cut the plant off three or four inches from the soil surface. There's no need for alarm if a milky substance "bleeds" from the cut surface. Place the plant in a light warm window. Water it thoroughly to saturate the soil.

Although it is not necessary to re-pot, if new soil is desired, use a mixture of equal parts garden loam, peat moss, and sand.

New growth will come from dormant buds on the old stem. This new growth forms the plant with flowering possibilities. The new shoots may also be used as slips to start more plants.

During summer, poinsettias do best in a sunny to partly shaded place outdoors where soil can be kept moist at all times.

Pinch out ends of new growth in June. Do it again about the first to middle of August. This helps produce a bush, compact plant. The tips removed in August may be long enough for a cutting to be rooted and potted for additional plants.

By mid-August, the plants should be brought into the house. Place in a sunny window away from drafts. Keep moderately moist.

During the summer, fertilize the plant once a week with a solution of one teaspoon of 20-20-20 in a gallon of water. When the plant is moved indoors, feed it only once each two weeks.

If conditions are right, red leaves will begin to appear in November. Short day length is needed to start and develop flowering. Therefore, house lights should be off during October, November and December in the room where poinsettias are kept.

Many Beverages

If it were not for the calories in some beverages, they could not be considered food. To quench the thirst, all the body requires is cold water. But we're spoiled. We want the water sweetened and flavored. And that makes the water expensive.

The most expensive are the soft drinks in no return cans or bottles. They cost from 8 cents to 12 cents a serving. In some instances the non-return container added as much as 4 cents more than for the identical product and amount in a returnable container.

It also costs, in tax money, 40 to 50 cents to pick up each such container discarded along roadsides. Oregon has passed a law forbidding the use of non-returnable bottles.

The cost of orange, pineapple, or grapefruit juice was 9 to 11 cents per eight-ounce glass. It was 5 to 8 cents for tomato juice.

Fruit drinks, punches, and nectars ranged from 6 to 8 cents. Grade A whole milk was only 7 cents. The least-cost drink was reconstituted non-fat milk — two and one-half cents for an eight-ounce serving.

Milk is a nutrition-filled food. It contains substantial amounts of calcium, protein, and some of the most of the other more than 40 required nutrients.

Tomato and real fruit juices contain Vitamin C and many more nutrients. Fruit-flavored drinks contain added Vitamin C and calories. Most soft drinks contain only calories.

Prison Guard Dies From Electrocutation

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Benjamin Isaac, a penitentiary guard, was electrocuted Sunday night when he attempted to replace a light bulb.

Prison warden Harold R. Swenson said Isaac, 55, attempted to replace a light bulb when he went on duty at 8 p.m. and in some manner electrocuted himself.

Swenson said the coroner ruled it an accidental death.

Herbs Important in Cooking

Ray Rothenberger
extension Horticulturist

Fragrant herbs have been cultivated by man since ancient times. Strange powers or religious significance were often related to herbs. Parsley signified death; rosemary prevented bad dreams; sage was believed to make men immortal.

The importance of herbs in cooking has continued from ancient to present times. Many foods would seem strange if not seasoned with herbs.

It is difficult to preserve the delicate flavor of some herbs when they are dried, although this is the most common way to preserve them. It is also possible to freeze some herbs. Some persons claim freezing preserves a better flavor. However, for the most authentic flavoring, the fresh plant is best.

Farm Roundup

Modified Wheat Plan Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is expected to announce by Wednesday a modified wheat program for paying farmers to take more land from production this year.

Officials hoped to announce the plan by last Friday but were unable to iron out final details in time. Meanwhile, pressure for the expanded program continued to grow among producer groups and some midwestern members of Congress.

As it stands now, the 1972 wheat program does not provide payments to farmers for taking land out of production in excess of their normal "set-bottom. Be careful not to overwater.

To improve soil drainage, liberal amounts of sand should be mixed into the potting soil before planting herbs. At least one-third of the volume should be sand.

Potting soils sold for house plants such as African violets are too rich for herbs. If these soils must be used, add liberal amounts of sand to improve drainage and reduce fertility. Soluble house plant fertilizers can be used if herbs are growing poorly. Always fertilize lightly.

Temperatures for herbs should not exceed 75 degrees during the day and should be cooler at night.

Humidity must be kept up for herbs grown in separate pots. Place pots on a tray containing gravel. Keep water in the gravel but below the pots to maintain a higher humidity around the plants.

Dependents Pull Out

Wives and children of British servicemen watch as their personal belongings are loaded on truck at Malta as "Operation Exit" began. Royal Air Force (RAF) planes removed the first of 7,000 dependents of 3,500 British troops on the strategic island. The government of Premier Dom Montoff has ordered British presence off the island by Jan. 15. (UPI)

Skeptical Of Cigar Ads on TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those television commercials for little cigars look mighty familiar to the senator chiefly responsible for forcing cigarette ads off TV. And he doesn't like it.

Same mood, same idea, says Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah—though these days the rugged guys with the admiring girls are drawing on a little cigar instead of a cigarette, thus obeying the law.

Retired President Of SMS Dies; Age 83

SPRINGFIELD, MO. (AP) — Dr. Roy Ellis, who retired 10 years ago after serving as president of Southwest Missouri State College for more than 35 years, died Sunday in a Springfield hospital. He was 83.

Dr. Ellis served as president of the school from 1926 through 1961. He has been recognized for developing a massive building program on the Southwest campus during his long tenure.

A native of Wright County, Missouri, Ellis also was author of a book on the civic history of Kansas City. He had been in failing health for some months.

Services are scheduled for Tuesday in Springfield.

"In several cases," Moss said, "smoking products which look like cigarettes and, more importantly, are inhaled like cigarettes, masquerade as cigars, thereby avoiding not only the ban against broadcasting but cigarette taxation as well."

"If you ever caught one of those ads you'd think they're right back into cigarette advertising," said Moss, who argues that sex appeal should not be used to promote something that is potentially dangerous.

So, Moss is thinking of trying to get the small cigars off the air with a fresh measure in the coming congressional session.

William Kloefer of the Tobacco Institute said he finds it "rather difficult" to understand why Moss is upset about the cigar ads.

"All the literature that condemns cigarettes does not condemn cigars at all," he said. Kloefer said such small cigars as Tijuana Smalls and Tiparillo have enjoyed a huge sales success in recent years.

Nearly a billion small cigars were sold last year, he said, up 500 per cent from a decade ago.

Big-cigar sales have consistently remained at about seven billion per year, he said.

Kloefer has no estimate of how much is spent on small-cigar television advertising. A Senate staff member thinks the figure could be $10 million annually, but said it's only a guess.

The three networks grossed some $200 million a year from cigarette ads before they were banned.

Cigars, big and small, are legally different from cigarettes, since they are made from different tobacco and are wrapped in leaf, not paper.

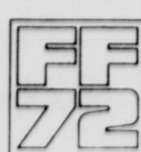

"We may have to have an amendment changing in some way, the definition of a cigarette," says Moss.

Discuss Queen's Authority

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Archeologists using a computer to reconstruct Egyptian temples say Nefertiti, one of the most beautiful queens of the Nile, may have been more powerful than her pharaoh.

"We know beyond any question that she was far more important than ever realized," says Dr. Ray W. Smith, one of the University of Pennsylvania archeologists who conducted the study.

The archeologists claim hundreds of thousands of facts digested by the computer recreated a visual picture of six lost years—from 1367 to 1361 B.C.—that no one knew existed.

"It's only a flash in a pan in the life of people," said Smith, director of the federally financed project that began in 1965 and now is winding down at a cost of $600,000. "But it depicts a time of enormous, powerful and startling activity."

Smith said the study provided evidence of Egypt's first one-god religion and its rituals, and revealed "one of the greatest concentrations of building that ever took place in such a short period of time in human history."

Detailed examination of more than 35,000 decorated stone blocks from ancient temples reportedly show Nefertiti may have been more powerful—religiously, anyway—than King Akhenaten.

The history books credit Akhenaten with probably starting the world's first major cultural revolution. His 17-year reign influenced dramatic changes in art, literature, government and social practices, and he was the first to be called pharaoh.

He is also said to have developed a religion that concentrated on one god, the sun's disc, possibly the first attempt at monotheism after the Jews.

"Usually an Egyptian king considered himself an earthly embodiment of his personal deity," Smith said. "We now believe that Nefertiti's status was in the same category."

The temple wall scenes the computer helped rebuild photographically involved mammoth detective work: Finding and photographing the 1-by-2 foot decorated stone blocks scattered in museums and antiquity stores around the world.

Smith said the 35,000 stones comprise about 15 per cent of the temple construction in Karnak.

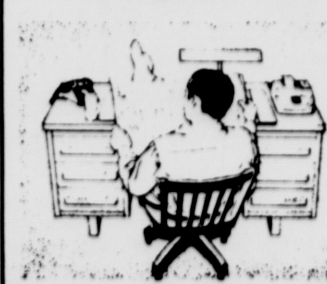

"We've been able to match well over 1,000 scenes," Smith said. "It has revealed colorful wall decorations, and buildings of startling size."

"We discovered that this king didn't build only one temple, he built at least three, in addition to other public buildings."

"And instead of it being only his temple, two may have been temples of Nefertiti which gives her importance in the period which no one ever suspected."

Repeats Bid For Amended Wheat Program

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — Sen. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., has reiterated his request that the U.S. Department of Agriculture amend the 1972 wheat program for the benefit of participating farmers.

Pearson said today the change would allow farmers, on a voluntary basis and for payment, to divert up to 50 per cent of their domestic allotments.

Pearson said he discussed the need to announce the change with Dr. Earl Butz, Secretary of Agriculture, prior to his confirmation by the Senate.

"The December crop production report shows farmers have increased seeded wheat acreage," Pearson noted. "Unless voluntary diversion payments are made available, the prospects are that over-all production will exceed the 1971 crop by 11 per cent."

The wheat carryover on July 1, 1972, could approach one billion bushels, with inevitable price declines. If voluntary diversion payments are approved, on the other hand, farmers could participate in effective supply management and strengthen market prices next year.

Europeans long mistook narwhale tusks for unicorn horns. When explorer Martin Frobiher found a dead tusked whale in the Arctic in 1577, he wrote that spiders placed in its hollow horn died. Since unicorns were thought to destroy poison, he concluded it was the "sea unicorn."

Take Advantage of New Move

By RAY DE CRANE

New employees, transferred employees and self-employed persons may be able to claim a deduction against gross income for their expenses in moving from one location to another.

Here are the conditions which must be met to entitle you to the deduction: The change in job location would have called for at least an additional 50 miles commuting if the residence had not been changed. You must be employed full time in the general vicinity of the new job location for at least 39 weeks during the 12 months following the move.

The deductible expenses are limited to these items:

1. The actual cost of moving household goods and personal effects.

2. The expenses of the employee and members of his household in moving from one location to another. This includes transportation, meals and lodging.

3. The cost of house-hunting trips to the new location after employment was obtained.

4. The cost of meals and lodging in temporary quarters at the new location for up to 30 days.

5. The cost of selling the old residence and purchasing another, or the expense in settling an old lease and acquiring a new one. Such expenses could include a broker's commission, closing costs, attorney fees and points charged on a mortgage to the extent not deductible as interest. There is no deduction, however, on a loss incurred in the sale of a former residence.

There are no dollar limits on items 1 and 2. For the other categories, the deduction is limited to $2,500, of which not more than $1,000 can be for house-hunting trips and temporary living expenses.

Self-employed persons must continue to work in the new location (either as self-employed or the employee of another) for at least 78 weeks during the 24 months following the move. Furthermore, at least 39 of those weeks must be included in the first 12 months.

There may not be time to meet the residency requirements before the filing deadline for your 1971 return. What should you do?

You have two choices. If it is possible for you to meet the test sometime in 1972, take the deduction on your 1971 return. Then if you fail to meet the test, you must include as income on your 1972 return the amount you claimed as a deduction on your 1971 return.

Or, you may pass by the deduction now and file an amended return for 1971 after the conditions have been met. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Organic Foods Cause Confusion

Dear Dr. Lamb — What do you think of the increasingly popular "organic foods?" Can one be assured that they are grown without chemical fertilizers?

Dear Reader — Like many people from rural America, or almost anyone raised before World War II, I grew up on organic food. Every farm boy did. I've hauled manure, not in little pails but by the wagonload. It was customary for people to grow all their own food and can it. The cellar was the winter storehouse for what you raised in the summer. Like all small all-purpose farms even the livestock were fed on organic food — crops raised the natural way. We even picked potato bugs off the vine by hand. So I am amused by the new fad of organic foods. I wish I could have shared some of the organic experience when I was a boy with some of today's enthusiasts.

I have also raised lots of food using chemical fertilizer. There is nothing wrong with it. Nitrogen is good for the soil that needs it, whether it comes in a big in powdered form, in the manure wagon or is put in the soil by legumes (bean family), plants that take nitrogen from the air. Nitrogen, after all, is nitrogen. The same can be said about a lot of other chemicals used to build up the soil.

There is no doubt that good soil raises good plants. That is just common sense. Any good farmer can tell you that. That is part of what makes the difference in upland and bottomland.

On the whole I think the organic food movement is a healthy one. I am not confused by some of the unscientific claims sometimes made though and know that, as stated, nitrogen is nitrogen. In fact, some chemicals that are not found in manure are needed for particular soil problems.

Although many people include the question of using insecticides in organic gardening — as a purist on the use of the words, I object to that wording, whether insecticides are good or bad. I suspect that insecticides do little harm if the food is properly washed and prepared before use, although they can cause other problems in environment.

The difference in the taste in a lot of "organic foods" is related to the difference in when the food is harvested. I suspect that a lot of people don't know the difference between a watermelon ripened on the vine and one shipped half green to the store. Most of the food in supermarkets is picked before it is ripened by nature. And that has very little to do with whether you hauled manure or fertilized by chemicals.

Incidentally, as far as health goes, despite "organic gardening" which was all that was available a few years back, all those people eating organic foods regularly got sick and had health problems not different from those that we contend with today. Only antibiotics weren't available in earlier days and a lot of other chemicals that have saved a lot of lives.

I strongly support people raising their own food and think it is good clean fun. It is a wonderful hobby. But as a scientist I'll have to stop there and realize that some enthusiasts are overselling the idea with wild, unscientific claims.

Disturbing Report On Heroin Control

A psychiatrist sent to Vietnam at the request of the Defense Department has come back with a disturbing report.

There is no social taboo against using heroin in the minds of U.S. troops in Vietnam, says Dr. Norman Zinberg of Clark University in Worcester, Mass. Because of this, he writes in "Behavior Today," a weekly newsletter of the behavioral sciences, the Army's "evangelical zeal" to wipe out the use of the drug has actually been counterproductive.

"Soldiers who don't leave Vietnam immediately often return to heroin," he says. "Mainlining (direct injection into a vein) has increased since the crackdown."

Contrary to the U.S. drug scene, says Zinberg, heroin use in Vietnam is a social activity among friends and not the habit of a deviant loner from a deprived urban background.

"The typical user would fit many people's idea of the healthy, all-around American boy. He is often from a small town in the Midwest or South, is in good physical condition, has used virtually no drugs before joining the Army, and shows no evidence of character disorder."

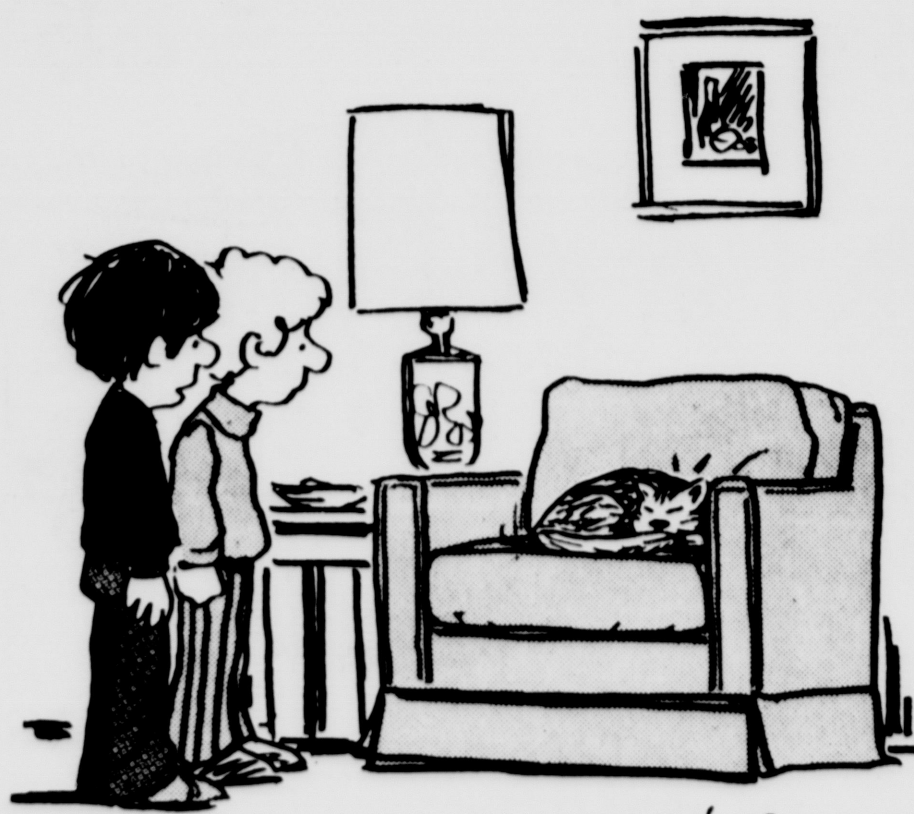

What happens when these healthy, all-around American boys return home to the small midwestern or southern towns where heroin use is not socially acceptable and where heroin can only be obtained illegally?

Zinberg calls for "reasonable social control rather than a frantic attempt to suppress the drug totally."

Which means more or less permanent maintenance of drug addicts by society. Whether in Vietnam or in the United States, it is not a prospect which calls for celebration.

What's that you say, mother — you didn't raise your son to be a soldier? How about a junkie?

Big Powers Teetered On the Edge of War

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — The secret White House Papers reveal some ominous similarities between the Bay of Bengal and the Gulf of Tonkin.

The Gulf of Tonkin incident on Aug. 4, 1964, led to our deep involvement in the Vietnam war. The American public was told that North Vietnamese torpedo boats had staged an unprovoked attack upon a U.S. destroyer, although later evidence indicated that the attack was actually provoked.

The risk of a similar naval incident in the Bay of Bengal caused grave apprehensions inside the State Department as a U.S. task force steamed toward a Soviet task force at the height of the Indian-Pakistani fighting.

On Dec. 7, a top secret warning was flashed to Washington that "three Soviet naval ships, a sea-going minesweeper and tanker have begun to move northeastward into the Bay of Bengal. The units entered the Indian Ocean from the Malacca Strait on 3 December and were located approximately 500 nautical miles east of Ceylon on 7 December."

Urgent huddles in the White House led to a decision on Dec. 10 to assemble in Malacca Strait a U.S. task force, spearheaded by the aircraft carrier Enterprise, the Navy's most powerful ship. The primary purpose was to make a "show of force" and to divert Indian planes and ships from Pakistan.

As the task force moved into position, Admiral John McCain, our Pacific commander, inquired on Dec. 11 about "the feasibility of... aerial surveillance of Soviet task group located approximately 180 NM (nautical miles) southwest of Ceylon."

Authorization was flashed back the same day "in the event Task Force 74 is directed to transit the Strait of Malacca. At that time, appropriate... screening-surveillance flights are authorized."

As the American warships moved through the strait and headed into the Bay of Bengal, even more ominous reports reached Washington from the Defense Intelligence Agency.

"Recent indicators have been received which suggest the PRC (Peoples Republic of China) may be planning actions regarding the Indo-Pakistan conflict," a top secret message reported tersely. "According to a reliable clandestine source, (Pakistan's) President Yahya Khan claimed... today that the Chinese ambassador in Islamabad had assured him that within 72 hours the Chinese army will move towards the border."

"President Yahya's claim cannot be confirmed. However, recent Peking propaganda statements have become more critical of India's involvement in East Pakistan."

From Katmandu in the Himalayas, meanwhile, came word that both the Soviet and Indian military attaches had asked Col. Melvin Holst, the American attaché, what he knew about Chinese troop movements and U.S. fleet movements.

"USSR Attache Loginov," said the secret dispatch, "called upon PRC military attaché Chao Kuang Chih in Katmandu advising Chao that PRC should not get too serious about intervention, because USSR would react had many missiles, etc."

Holst concluded, the dispatch added, that "both the USSR and India Embassies have a growing concern that PRC might intervene."

Simultaneously, the Central Intelligence Agency rushed out a top secret report that "the Chinese have been passing weather data for locations in Tibet and along the Sino-Indian border since 8 December. The continued passing of weather data for these locations is considered unusual and may indicate some form of alert posture."

And from New Delhi, the CIA reported: "According to a reliable clandestine source, Prime Minister Gandhi told a leader of her Congress Party that she had some indications that the Chinese intend to intervene along India's northern border... Mrs. Gandhi said that the Chinese action might be in the Ladakh area."

Russia's ambassador to India, Nikolai M. Pegov, however, promised on Dec. 13 that the Soviets "would open a diversionary action" against the Chinese and "will not allow the Seventh Fleet to intervene."

Here are the highlights of this ominous Soviet pledge, which the CIA claimed to have picked up from a "reliable source."

"Pegov stated that Pakistan is trying to draw both the United States and China into the present conflict. The Soviet Union, however, does not believe that either country will intervene."

"According to Pegov, the movement of the U.S. Seventh Fleet is an effort by the U.S. to bully India, to discourage it from striking against West Pakistan, and at the same time to boost the morale of the Pakistani forces. Pegov noted that a Soviet fleet is now in the Indian Ocean and that the Soviet Union will not allow the Seventh Fleet to intervene."

"If China should decide to intervene in Ladakh, said Pegov, the Soviet Union would open a diversionary action in Sinkiang. Pegov also commented that after Dacca is liberated and the Bangladesh government is installed, both the U.S. and China will be unable to act and will change their current attitude toward the crisis."

This is how the big powers danced precariously on the edge of the brink just before Christmas as people sang about peace on earth and good will toward men.

Company Should Pay For Street

As I read your newspaper account of the Jan. 3, Sedalia City Council meeting, it became obvious to me why we have a taxpayers revolt in this country. The item of business I am referring to is the request by the Parkhurst Manufacturing Co. to have the city survey and construct a new street in their industrial tract of land.

For the city to construct this street, which is subsidizing a private land developer in order to make the property have a higher commercial value, is absurd. I see the need for the city to review the plans for the new street so it is developed in an orderly manner, but for the city to use public funds to do the surveying, grading and graveling work appears to be a misuse of public funds.

If it is necessary to continue the practice to build new streets on private industrial property, this free service should be given to all land developers, both industrial and residential. I believe now is the time to stop wasting public tax funds and use surplus funds, if available, to repair our existing deteriorated streets.

Has Big Brother Arrived?

WASHINGTON — I got a burning, queasy feeling in the pit of my stomach last Sunday as I listened to National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle talk about the use of lie-detectors.

Rowan

Rozelle tells us that men we all assume to be among the richest, proudest, most individualistic persons in America have meekly submitted to lie-detector tests to prove that they have not gambled.

Let me quote verbatim from CBS's "Face the Nation":

"New York Post writer Larry Merchant: It's often been stated that there's a double standard as far as (National Football League) owners are concerned in the area of gambling. We know you've given lie-detector tests to ball players. Have you ever given a lie-detector test to an owner?"

"Rozelle: Yes, more than once."

"Merchant: And what were the results?"

"Rozelle: The results established to our satisfaction and that of the expert taking the test that they had not gambled."

Now it would be a "horrible" thing, of course, if someone could prove that the owner of one football team won a bundle by betting on the opposition — even if it was the owner of last-place Buffalo wagering that red-hot Dallas would beat his team, which isn't gambling but is closer to stealing. I concede that word of this wagering owner might shake up everybody to the point where there wouldn't be any more big betting on pro football.

Jimmy the Greek might have to open a restaurant!

But would such a gambling scandal be as corrosive a force in this society as a great civil libertarian attorney like Edward Bennett Williams submitting to a lie-detector test just to prove he is clean enough to keep up shelling out $7 a ticket? I don't know, of course, that Williams, the Washington Redskins' boss, ever submitted to such a test, but Rozelle leaves the clear impression that anytime he says "lie-detector" all the owners start strapping electronic plates to their arms.

I prefer the old "American" system under which every team owner, player, waterboy or cheerleader was considered totally innocent of gambling or anything else until an accuser stepped forward with proof to the contrary.

The team owner, or player, who meekly submits to a lie-detector test is chickening out on the Constitution, eroding the most basic concepts of innocence and proven guilt.

What these NFL tiddlywinklers forget is that if I'm the kind of guy to be swayed by malicious gossip, why the devil should I trust Rozelle and his lie-detector "expert"? If I'm dumb enough to believe that a man of Williams's stature would sell out the Redskins to the gamblers, then my paranoia stretches far enough for me to think that Rozelle and his lie-detector are fixed, too.

The point is that suspicion and rumor-mongering are corrosive forces that eat away at men and the vitals of any society. Start compromising with them and you have taken the road to ruin.

I might have ignored this little Rozelle blockbuster but for the fact that the compromising is already going on in a lot of important places.

The State Department, in its days of declining power and prestige, trembles pitifully whenever there is a significant "leak" to a newspaperman that has anything to do with foreign policy.

State's careerists remember Lyndon B. Johnson's characterization of them as "little puppy dogs stopping at every fire hydrant," so they know that the White House will point an early finger at State as the source of the leak.

Thus we have had the sad spectacle in recent months of State Department employees submitting to lie-detector tests to try to prove that they did not turn over data to a certain newsmen.

Employees have been told, in effect, that retaining their jobs hinged on their willingness to submit to the lie-detector.

This would be a high price to pay for locating a leak even if grave national security matters were involved. It is a criminally tragic price when, as is most often the case, the only thing involved is the temporary embarrassment of some bureaucrat.

It would serve society well if State's employees would tell the next gumshoe to shove his lie-detector down his esophagus. That might put a bit of steel in everyone's spine.

But can we expect lowly-paid, mortgage-owning bureaucrats to man the ramparts of personal freedom when rich and famous owners of football teams knuckle under so easily to Pete Rozelle's Keyhole Korps?

Growing City

A population of 10.5 million persons has been forecast by 1975 for the Los Angeles metropolitan area to make the city the largest in the United States.

Congress Seeks Foreign Policy Role

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The challenge to President Nixon's leadership in foreign affairs will grow.

In fact, congressional challenge to the president's leadership will become more critical in years ahead, no matter who is president or chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

This intensified Senate versus the President struggle is strongly predicted by new academic studies on the changing political relationships in this country, including work by political scientist, Dr. David N. Farnsworth of Wichita State University.

These studies predict the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will be rougher on treaties. Instead of accepting them as written, as has been the custom, it may possibly want to write major provisions of important pacts rather than leaving this task up to the president and his negotiators.

The committee, in fact, is likely to become more and more skeptical of executive requests generally.

Nominations for ambassador and for high posts in the State Department may get more of the hard scrutiny now being given to Supreme Court associate justices.

The Senate, and particularly the Foreign Relations Committee, is likely to develop a stronger, independent means of information gathering on foreign problems. More pressure may be put on the White House to open its own files.

The president may be forced into greater caution in making international agreements. He will want to explore whether a particular arrangement or commitment will give rise to strong challenges in Congress which could hurt him politically. Before making nominations, the President will give more thought to how nominees will be received by the Senate.

Farnsworth seems to believe the president will repeatedly ask himself: "Will Congress challenge this commitment as an overextension of U.S. policy?" In much the same way that presidents once asked themselves, "Will Congress and the public accuse the administration of being soft on communism if a commitment is not made or intervention is not carried out?"

The growing tendency of Congress to criticize will possibly cause the president to depend more on executive agreements with foreign countries and less on treaties which must be reviewed by the Senate though it is not clear how this would stifle congressional debate.

Congressional skepticism of the Pentagon's role in policymaking, it would also seem, may revive the importance of the State Department in the development of foreign policy and downgrade the influence of the secretary of Defense.

The increasingly critical role of Congress in foreign affairs, if it pans out as predicted in this research, will be good if it leads to more open debate, exposing pitfalls overlooked by the administration, and provides the public with a clear view of the issues. It might, for one, keep this country from slipping into situations so tangled we could extricate ourselves only with the greatest difficulty once we found they served no worth-while purpose.

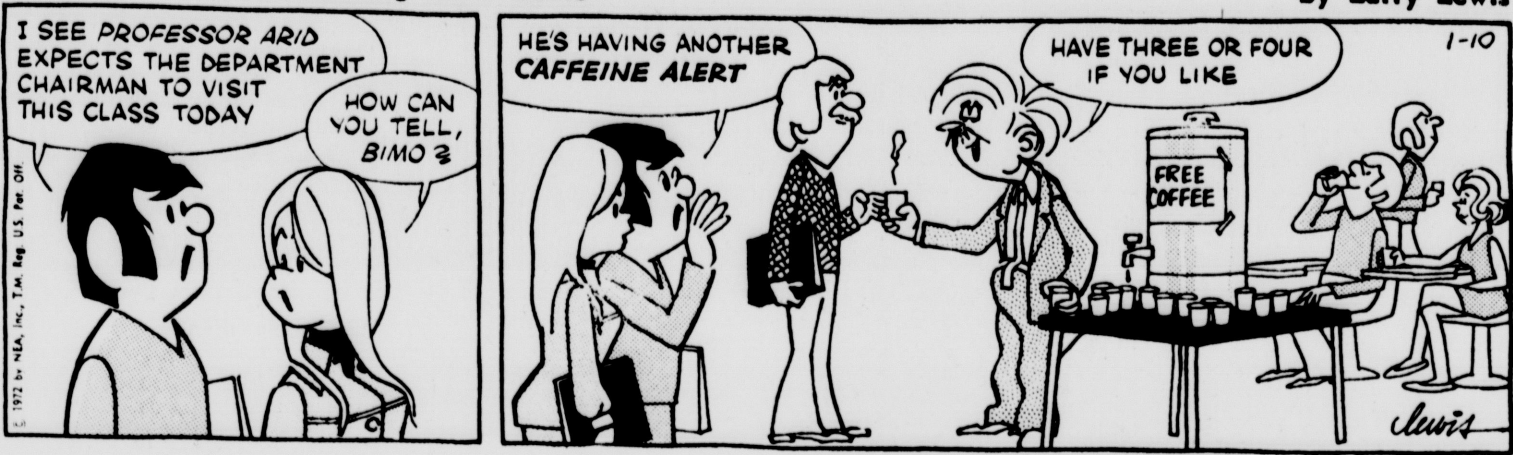

But if the new relationships should end up in excessive congressional carping on the one hand and endless presidential maneuvering on the other, U.S. foreign policy could end up a shambles.

Oswald: "Let's talk about 10s and nines."
Jim: "You don't count any points for them, but you use their presence or absence to decide whether or not to bid in a close situation. I assume your remark is the prelude to some hand played before I was born."

Oswald: "Close. You were two or three years old when the late Albert Morehead played a hand very similar to this one."

Jim: "It's easy to see what he did. He decided to open a trump and was careful to lead the nine. Obviously, South was a good player and he fell into the trap."

Oswald: "That is just what happened. South studied awhile and decided that Al had led from nine-small. This marked East with queen-ten-small and gave declarer a chance to avoid the loss of a trump trick against that combination. So South covered the nine with dummy's jack. East's queen fell to the king. South entered dummy with a diamond and finessed against East's theatrical 10 of trumps. Al took the trick and led the ace of hearts and a second heart to South's king. East cashed his ace of clubs to set the contract."

Jim: "The lead is old-hat now in top flight circles. With any other opening declarer would bang down the ace and king of trumps to drop the queen and make his game."

Lakers' String Broken

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"It's fantastic," said a happy Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello after his fired-up Bucks had ended the longest winning streak in professional sports history, thrashing the Los Angeles Lakers 120-104.
"I'm just glad we were in a position to do it," added Costello after the Bucks had handed the Lakers their first National Basketball Association setback since Oct. 31 and stopped their 33-game victory skein Sunday.
Lakers' Coach Bill Sharman also used the word "fantastic," but in a different fashion.
"We played fantastic for two and a half months," he said. "and it had to end. But I hope we're smart enough to learn by our mistakes so we can play better against them the next time."
"It was a great performance, and that's what it took to beat a team like Los Angeles," said Costello.

"I think we were flat and didn't play well," said Sharman, "but I give Milwaukee credit. They were very aggressive."
Both coaches agreed that defense was the deciding factor.
Another key point occurred early in the third period, when the Lakers' massive center, Wilt Chamberlain, picked up his fourth personal foul. After that, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the Bucks' big center, scored 23 of his game-high 39 points. Jabbar also finished with 20 rebounds, while Chamberlain, who never has fouled out of a high school college or pro game, had only 15 points and 12 rebounds.
"I'm ashamed we didn't play better," said an embarrassed Chamberlain.
Meanwhile, in the NBA, Baltimore beat Phoenix 109-103, Golden State edged Houston 113-112, Chicago defeated Cincinnati 108-104 in overtime, Detroit downed Buffalo 101-96, and Seattle topped Boston 125-119.
Jack Marin's 28 points paced Baltimore's streaking Bullets to their sixth straight victory.
Cazzie Russell, who hit a key three-point play with 51 seconds remaining, fired in 31 points and Nate Thurmond and Jeff Mullins each scored 25 points, pulling the Warriors' triumph over Houston.
Chicago's Chet Walker hit seven of his game-high 33 points in overtime, helping the Bulls hand Cincinnati its 14th straight setback, three short of the league record.
Jimmy Walker of Detroit pumped in 35 points as the Pistons saddled Buffalo with its 13th loss in 14 games.
Seattle survived an 18-point fourth-quarter outburst by Boston's John Havlicek in holding off the Celtics. The Super-Sonics' Spencer Haywood led all scorers with 33 points, one more than Boston's Jo Jo White.

North Defeats South in Bowl

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Nine days into 1972, the 1971 college football season finally ended.
After what may have seemed like a million regular season contests, a thousand bowls and a hundred all-star games ... it's over.
The last straw was the Lions American Bowl, won Sunday by the North All-Stars 27-8 before 20,137 fans at Tampa Stadium and a national television audience. It wasn't exactly a classic finish, but it was a finish.
North quarterback Van Brownson, Jerry Tagge's backup man for national champion Nebraska, fired an 88-yard scoring pass to Bob Christiansen of UCLA and another West Coast hero, Jackie Brown of Stanford, sprinted 22 yards to score and spark the favored Yankees.
The South kept throwing, but even 55 attempts through the air by Brian Sipe of San Diego State and Steve Jude of Texas Christian couldn't make up for a bagful of first half boo-boos.
Stable Vincent of Rice fumbled for the South at the North 12 to set the stage for Brownson's cross-country bomb to Christiansen that made it 7-0 late in the first period.
Iowa tackle Larry Horton put on a one-man show of muscle to hike the count to 14-0 when he smothered a punt by Florida A&M's John Champion and pounced on the ball in the end zone.
John Lanahan of Florida State coughed up the next kickoff for the South and the error led to the first of two field goals by Tennessee's George Hunt, who somehow was named placekicker for the North.
The 17-0 South deficit soon became 24-0 when Bo James of New Mexico State bobbled the ensuing kickoff to start a touchdown drive that was topped with Brown's 22-yard scamper.
Sipe connected six times in the South's only TD thrust and wound up sneaking the final yard. He was named the game's outstanding player and Brown was acclaimed the best for the North.
Brown rushed 15 times for 50 yards and Randy Jackson of Wichita State gained 20 in six attempts. Vincent led the South rushers with 28 yards in eight tries and James made 22 in six.
There were two all-star games Saturday, the Senior Bowl at Mobile, Ala., won 26-21 by the South and the Hula Bowl at Honolulu, won 24-7 by the North.
Owens said he could see no way varsity competition could hurt a freshman and that "even if a freshman doesn't play, he'll progress much faster playing against the varsity all the time. You won't have your freshmen working for one game and your varsity another. We can all be working on the same thing."
Owens stressed that the Big Eight would have to act quickly.
"It'll kill us recruiting if other conferences adopt it and we don't," he said. "I can't imagine recruiting against another outstanding basketball school if they do and we don't."
Owens pointed out that there's a difference in football and basketball in that "basketball is more of a skill game and football a physical strength game."
Basketball Coach Norm Stewart of Missouri, whose team has lost only one of 12 games, said he wasn't sure there would be "too many opportunities to use freshmen. I think a lot depends on what you want to do with your program."
"If it came down to using freshmen or having a freshmen program, I would rather have the freshmen program."

Sooners Eye First Place
KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Oklahoma Sooners, who struck the first big blow of the Big Eight Conference basketball race Saturday night, invade Nebraska tonight to try to take over undisputed possession of the league lead. The Sooners, unable to break even in non-conference clashes, surprised by knocking off Iowa State 77-72 at Ames, Iowa, by canning late free throws to seal the victory. Nebraska, in Saturday night's other opener in conference play, whipped Oklahoma State 73-59 at Lincoln, Neb.
The Sooners need to stop 6-foot-10 Chuck Jura and 6-8 Mike Peterson to beat the Cornhuskers, who trounced Oklahoma 84-68 for fifth place in the Big Eight preseason tournament last month.
Bobby Jack, who made 17 points against Iowa State, needs only 13 tonight to bring his career total to 1,000 points.
The conference's first television game will be played Saturday afternoon when Colorado, 3-9, visits Nebraska, 8-5. Three other Big Eight tilts, involving the other teams which haven't seen action in the conference race, are set Saturday night when Iowa State, 7-6, goes to Kansas State, 6-6; Oklahoma State, 2-10, to Kansas, 3-8; and Missouri, 11-1, to Oklahoma, 5-6.
John Yule's basket with 6:16 left gave Oklahoma a 59-57 lead over the Cyclones and put the Sooners ahead for good. The Sooners' accuracy from the free throw line widened the gap to 71-64 with 2:43 remaining. The Cyclones, behind 39-38 at halftime, could go out front only once in the second half.
Besides Jack's 17 points, Oklahoma got 15-point performances from sophomore Tom Holland and Yule, a reserve. Iowa State was led by Wayne Williams with 22 points and Martinez Denmon with 21. Oklahoma outbounded the Cyclones 44-30.
Jura, unable to score against the Cowboys' defense in the final stanza, nevertheless paced the Cornhuskers with 16 points, one more than the 15 tallied by Oklahoma State's Kevin Fitzgerald.
Nebraska shot ahead quickly and had an 11-point advantage with 8:01 left in the opening half. The Cowboys closed it to six points with 16:43 remaining but the Cornhuskers sank six consecutive points to gain a 12-point cushion.
The Oklahoma-Nebraska game is the only action tonight.

Exhibition Between Royals, Braves Set

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Atlanta Braves will meet the Kansas City Royals in an exhibition game in Kansas City June 22, the Royals announced today.
Cedric Tallis, the Royals' executive vice president and general manager, said, "We like to be able to bring National League teams in to play for our fans from time to time but the presence of a brilliant standout of the magnitude of Hank Aaron could make this game one of the highlight events of our first season at Royals stadium."
"American League fans who haven't seen Aaron hit can look forward to the same treat National League fans who haven't seen Brooks Robinson field would look forward to."
"The Braves have some other extraordinary players, too."

Will Frosh Play During Regular Season?

Big 8 Plays Waiting Game Following Vote

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Big Eight Conference was pondering today over what to do about the National Collegiate Athletic Association's action making university division freshmen football and basketball players eligible for varsity competition.
The conference has voted against the use of freshmen in football. The NCAA approved the proposal Saturday during its annual convention at Hollywood, Fla.
Big Eight Commissioner Chuck Neinas said the conference would wait a week or 10 days to reach a decision and undoubtedly will be watching what action is taken by other major conferences. Neinas said the Big Eight favored the use of freshmen in basketball.
Neinas indicated that if other conferences adopt the rule, the Missouri Independents

Westminster, Wildcats Do Well as Independents
KANSAS CITY (AP) — With small college basketball well under way in Missouri, two schools have found it's all right to break ties with a conference.
Culver-Stockton College and Westminster College, from the defunct Missouri College Athletic Union, are doing well as independents.
With nine lettermen back this year, the Wildcats of Culver have a 6-2 record. Bradley dealt Culver a 92-57 defeat in the second game of the season in Emporia. And the Wildcats lost to Westminster in the Central Methodist Tournament.
But this past week Culver was back in line with an 86-74 victory over Eureka (Ill.) College. And the Wildcats made it an even break in tournament action with a triumph in the recent North Park (Ill.) invitational by crushing Illinois homa and Oklahoma State will have to from a recruiting standpoint.

"It's a money saving deal. You're going to save on coaching and on one or two football trips. I don't know what that exactly means in dollars and cents. But that was one of the reasons it was passed."
Fambrough and Onofrio are opposed without reservation.
Fambrough said in the Big Eight "it would be fairly rare for a freshman to play varsity football. At this level, freshmen are not ready to play. It would be a way to discourage boys because they'd be sitting on the bench."
"This first year is a year of adjustment to football and the classroom. Being in a rebuilding situation like we are, there are probably some who'd help us but in the long run, I just don't think it would be good."
"I can see how it will be beneficial to smaller schools but our situation is entirely different. But I'm just speaking as a coach. What the faculty representatives do is something else. But we also have to look at this from a recruiting standpoint."
"If the other major conferences go for it, the rest may have to fall in line."
Onofrio said he doesn't think many freshmen would play "because it would be difficult for a sophomore to play. I just don't see how a high school player would be ready to play in the fall."
Onofrio said the rule would "really intensify recruiting and add a new dimension. I'd hate to say whether any boys were talked to would be ready to play next fall. We've talked to a lot of boys, and we really haven't looked at it that way."
Mickey Holmes, Big Eight director of conference services, noted that the faculty representatives who would have to approve the proposal don't hold their next regularly scheduled meeting until March 1-3.
Holmes said that as of now "we have freshmen competition in all sports except football and basketball. However, for freshmen, one of the four seasons must be his freshman year."
"That means an athlete can't be redshirted (held out of competition) as a freshman. If he does not compete as a freshman, he has only three years of varsity eligibility remaining."
Owens said he could see no way varsity competition could hurt a freshman and that "even if a freshman doesn't play, he'll progress much faster playing against the varsity all the time. You won't have your freshmen working for one game and your varsity another. We can all be working on the same thing."

Anderson Pours in 42

Local Teams Post Six Weekend Wins

"If I'd known he was that close I would have left him in ... it's one of the craziest games I've ever seen ... I think we're starting to reach our potential," were the Monday morning comments from coaches Jim Dinsdale (Smith-Cotton), Bill Barton (State Fair Community College) and Tom Beer (Sacred Heart).

All three coaches saw their teams post back-to-back Friday and Saturday night victories.

"I wish I'd known that Kim Anderson was only three points off Charles 'Van' Van Dyne's scoring record before lifting him in the late seconds of the third quarter," said Dinsdale. "The way he was playing, I wonder just where his statistics would have been if he'd played the whole game."

Anderson poured in 42 points, only three of the all-time, single-game scoring record set by Charles 'Van' Van Dyne's of 45 in 1956.

Anderson, who is one of the leading scorers in Missouri high school basketball ranks, is now carrying a 24.7 average through 11 games.

Friday night he tossed in 30 points, but Saturday night he poured in 42 as the Tigers rolled over Jefferson City 84-47.

Anderson completely dominated the game, pulling down 25 rebounds, as well.

Bill Barton surveyed the Roadrunners' wild encounter in Kansas City Saturday night as his cagers racked up a record-setting performance over the Longview Community College Slugs, 117-99.

It was the most number of points a State Fair Community College team had ever scored; likewise, it was the most number of points an SFCC team had ever allowed.

The 117 points broke the 1970-71 mark of 111, which was set against both the Central Methodist junior varsity and St. Paul's College of Concordia.

Defensively, however, Barton was bemoaning the fact that his Roadrunners allowed 99 points — also a record. That bettered Moberly Junior College's output of 98 during the 1969-70 season in a sub-district playoff game.

Across town at Sacred Heart, Tom Beer was happily looking over his statistics on Saturday's 68-48 win over Pilot Grove. The win virtually erased an earlier loss the Grems had suffered on the road.

Beer was happy with the balance his team demonstrated, and as he gazed over the season's scoring statistics, he could see that Dan Borchers is currently the only starter not averaging in double figures. However, Borchers is only 1.5 off a double point average.

Leading the balanced scoring attack for Sacred Heart is Jeff Karigan (13.7); Bill Freund is right on his heels (13.6), while Steve Karigan (12.4) and Bill Straka (12.1) round out the starting five.

Smith-Cotton had little trouble subduing the Jays, who almost pulled the first major upset of the season in central-Missouri Friday night over Columbia. The Kewpies came alive late, however, and won the game, 56-52.

The victory inched the Tigers ever closer to the 500 mark at 5-6, and moved their Central Missouri Conference mark to 2-1.

Jefferson City slipped to 0-3 in the league and 2-8 overall. The Jays have now not seen a victory in over five weeks; their last win was in the third-place game of the Tipton Invitational Tournament, 71-68.

State Fair Community College drew closer to a 500 mark of their own in their victory over Longview at 7-8.

Jimmy Lassiter, suffering from a toe injury he sustained in the Friday night win over Hannibal La-Grange, only netted 17 points against the Slugs. That was the lowest output of the season for the 6'3" freshman from Freedom, Pa.

However, Barton saw six of his players reach double figures. Duane Kraetli led the way with 21 points (20 of which came in the second half); forward Myles Yates added 19. Kevin Arand drilled in 16. Jerry Diekmann had 18, while Brent Yates added 13 to go along with Lassiter's 17.

Although the Roadrunners canned 117 points, many other attempts to score got away as they turned the ball over 35 times. There were also 56 total fouls in the game, half of which were charged to SFCC.

Balanced Sacred Heart scoring carried the Gremlins to their 12th win in 15 outings over Pilot Grove.

Bill Freund was the leading scorer with 17, while Steve Karigan added 16. Karigan hit on eight of 10 attempts from the field.

Bill Straka was also in double figures with 10; he had four assists. Karigan was the game's top rebounder with 14.

Bill Betteridge topped all scorers with 29 for Pilot Grove.

Both State Fair and Smith-Cotton are idle until Friday, but Sacred Heart hosts Sweet Springs Tuesday night.

Playoff Needed in LA To Decide Golf Champ

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Oh, I'll go out and chase it around and try not to hit too many people," was Dave Hill's laconic assessment of his game plan for today's 18-hole playoff for the title and the $25,000 first prize in the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open golf tournament.

The slim, dark Hill, a sometimes bad boy who has had countless run-ins with golf-dom's authorities, canned a dramatic 30-foot birdie putt on the final hole to tie George Archer and Tommy Aaron at the end of 72 holes Sunday and force the extra round.

All had 72-hole totals of 270, 14 under par on the 6,823-yard Rancho Park Golf Course. Hill, the last man to finish, and the 6-foot-6 Archer each had a five-under-par 66 on the sunny final day and Aaron, who sported a three-stroke lead going into the round, had a 69.

It was the fourth time in as many years that this tournament—the traditional opening event on the long, rich pro tour—had ended in a playoff. But it was the first time it will go to 18 holes on Monday. The others had been sudden death.

It was set up in that fashion because of television commitments, and neither Aaron nor Archer knew about it beforehand.

The playoff was scheduled to start at 2:10 p.m. (EST) with national television (CBS-TV) scheduled from 5-6 p.m. All three playoff participants said they would have preferred a sudden death affair.

The winner will get $25,000 and the other two $11,575 each regardless of their score. Each will get another $5,000 from television. Archer has a 2-2 career playoff record. Aaron 1-2 and Hill 3-1.

It was a three-man race all the way with Chris Blocker finishing alone in fourth at 275, five strokes back. Bob Rosburg and Hale Irwin tied at 276.

LA Swingers

No, it's not a new dance, it's just Dave Hill, right, and his caddy giving Hill's putt a little help on the 18th green during Sunday's final round of the Los Angeles Open. Hill sank the putt and ended up in a three-way tie for the tourney lead. A playoff was scheduled for Monday to decide the champion between Hill, George Archer and Tommy Aaron. (UPI)

Fight Erupts During Game

Marquette's Bob Lackey (45) and South Carolina's Tom Riker square off in a second-quarter melee that broke out underneath the South Carolina basket during Sunday's battle between the second-ranked Marquette Warriors and the fourth-rated South Carolina

Gamecocks. The referees restored order in about 10 minutes, but Riker and Lackey watched from the sidelines after being tossed out of the game. Marquette edged the Gamecocks, 72-71. (UPI)

Fight Mars Victory

Marquette Nudges Gamecocks, 72-71

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Second-ranked Marquette and fourth-ranked South Carolina squared off to settle things in one of those typical brawls among college toughs.

They even managed to play basketball while they were at it.

Marquette survived a punching bout and South Carolina's mistake-inducing press to defeat the Gamecocks 72-71 in a tinging match of independent powers Sunday.

Before the game was over, each team lost a heavyweight—Marquette's Bob Lackey and South Carolina's Tom Riker were given the thumb after exploding a melee under the Gamecock basket.

"It happened like fire," said South Carolina Coach Frank McGuire of the battle early in the second half between the 210-pound, 6-foot-6 Lackey and the 6-10, 225-pound Riker.

The two forwards fired punches and sparked high emotion from the sidelines. Both benches emptied, but the melee was broken up shortly by officials and coaches while the South Carolina band played the Star Spangled Banner.

Riker, who sat out the dramatic finish with an icepack on his hand, will be X-rayed for possible fractures today. Lackey suffered another kind of pain: "The worst part was sitting out the rest of the game."

"The fight really meant nothing, it's best to ignore it," said Al McGuire, the Marquette coach who is no relation to Frank.

The Marquette-South Carolina warfare was the only battle Sunday among ranked teams. Everyone else was in action Saturday, including top-ranked UCLA, which beat Oregon 93-68.

Third-ranked North Carolina defeated Furman 118-66; Minnesota tripped No. 5 Indiana 52-51; sixth-rated Penn trimmed Harvard 81-52; No. 7 Louisville whipped Cincinnati 84-76; eighth-ranked Long Beach State downed Fresno State 98-78; No. 9 Virginia stopped North Carolina State 84-73 and 10th-ranked Ohio State topped Purdue 78-70.

Elsewhere, it was 11th-ranked

Southern California 87, Oregon State 75; Clemson 63, 12th-ranked Maryland 61; No. 13 Marshall 102, Western Michigan 77; No. 14 Villanova 69, Canisius 65; 15th-ranked Southwestern Louisiana 75, Northeast Louisiana 73; No. 16 Hawaii 96, Centenary 91; Syracuse 87, 17th-rated St. John's, N.Y. 83; No. 18 Brigham Young 88, Arizona 67; No. 19 Kentucky 93, Mississippi 82 and 20th-ranked Florida State 106, East Tennessee State 93.

The Warriors and Gamecocks got back to basketball after the fistcuffs and really gave the crowd at the Carolina Coliseum something to shout about.

South Carolina twice had possession of the ball in the final minute but was unable to score. A shot at the buzzer by Kevin Joyce was short.

Jim Chones scored 17 points, including a key field goal under the two-minute mark that kept Marquette in command.

Bill Walton was the dominating figure in the UCLA triumph, scoring 30 points and triggering the Bruins' break-away plays. It was the Bruins' second straight triumph in the Pacific-8 Conference in their quest for another league title and crack at a sixth straight NCAA title.

Bill Chamberlain's 21 points paced North Carolina's victory; Bob Nix sank two free throws with 17 seconds left to give Minnesota a triumph over Indiana before 19,121 fans; Bob Morse scored 16 points as Penn took its 30th straight Ivy League game; Jim Price drilled in 30 for Louisville and Barry Parkhill had 24 for Virginia.

Colorado State, an unranked team with a fancy record, improved its mark to 9-1 by defeating Texas El Paso 63-62; Niagara made it 10-1 with a 112-92 triumph over St. Peter's, N.J.; and West Virginia boosted its record to 6-0 by beating Davidson 95-78.

Phil Esposito of the Boston Bruins was the first National Hockey League player to score 20 goals this season.

Carson Is Irked After Losing Coaching Post

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"How can a team have confidence in a man who everyday is on trial for his life?"

Bitter and emotionally shaken, Bud Carson exploded his bad feelings after losing the football coaching job at Georgia Tech.

Carson's expulsion came during a day of otherwise happy activity as three new coaches were named Saturday—Al Conover at Rice; Cal Stoll at Minnesota and Tom Harper at Wake Forest.

Carson said he was not only hurt by his dismissal, but also puzzled.

"I don't even know why I'm being fired," he told a gathering of newsmen at Atlanta. "I guess I don't part my hair right or have the right image."

Athletic Director Bobby Dodd, who made no recommendation on whether Carson should be retained, formally submitted his own resignation. But the athletic board refused to accept it and instructed Dodd to begin searching for a new coach.

Earlier in the week, acting university President James E. Boyd said he was reviewing a report submitted by "prominent alumni" that listed complaints about Carson's relationships with players and coaches.

Carson appeared for 36 minutes during a 5½-hour session called by the board and later stated: "I did not see any re-

Carson, who compiled a 27-27 won-lost record in five years as Tech's fourth football coach, said he felt "on trial" during this past 6½ season.

"I don't disagree with Tech's right to fire me," he snapped. "But I disagree with the manner in which it was done. I still don't know what charges were made."

A different emotion, one of happiness, was expressed by Harper. He said he was "tickled pink" to get the Wake Forest job.

"I have a feeling for the players and I believe they have a feeling for me," said Harper, who had been a staff member for three years and moved up when Stoll resigned to take the Minnesota position.

Conover moved up from an assistant's job to the head spot at Rice while Assistant Athletic Director Red Bale was boosted to Athletic Director.

The 48-year-old Stoll, who resigned his Wake Forest post Friday, promised to start building a strong foundation for the future at Minnesota: "I intend to surround myself with a good staff and work hard. The harder I work, the luckier I get."

Gene Mack Dropped at ISU

AMES, Iowa (AP) — The Iowa State basketball team will have to make its mark in the Big Eight Conference race without Gene Mack.

Cyclone Coach Maury John revealed Sunday night he has dropped the 6-foot-1 senior guard from the squad for disciplinary reasons. Mack is ISU's number two scorer at 15.2 points a game.

John indicated the move was permanent.

Mack, the only returning starter from last season's team, sat out most of the Cyclones' opener here Saturday night against Oklahoma, a game Iowa State lost 77-72.

John said after the game that Mack had been benched because he missed a pre-game meal and meeting. Mack said he had merely lost track of time, and inadvertently missed the meal and meeting.

"I am very, very disappointed in Gene," John said in announcing the dismissal. "I feel he let his team and Iowa State University down just before the most important game of the season."

John added that he met with Mack Sunday to discuss the situation, "and he (Mack) didn't have what I considered a valid excuse for missing the meeting."

Senior Rick Engel, who started Saturday night in place of Mack, and sophomores Eric Heft and Mike Capobianco are the chief candidates to take over Mack's starting spot.

Proud Of Accomplishments

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Fred T. Wilkinson, who announced his retirement Jan. 1 as head of Missouri's Department of Corrections, makes no secret of it.

He is proud of what he has accomplished since coming to Jefferson City almost seven years ago—and much more needs to be done.

It was a cool April weekend when he arrived. He put up at the warden's house, and early Sunday morning went inside the walls.

The word on Missouri's miserable prison plight had reached Washington earlier, and he had reviewed the report of a special joint committee of the legislature.

What kind of a corrections system could he expect when the former director and the warden weren't on speaking terms? And what could be done to appease a growing anger and frustration on the part of the public which had been bombarded with reports of continuing violence within the walls?

Wilkinson, a former deputy director of the federal prison system, had the credentials and the know-how gathered over a long career. But this was going to be a challenge.

His cursory inspection took him to a yard where a retaining wall had collapsed some distant time in the past. No effort had been made to clean it up, to restore a recreation area for more than 2,000 inmates with no place to go.

"I was shocked at the squalor and the slag piles," Wilkinson recalled.

He encountered wariness on the prison yard. Several of the inmates knew him.

Their attitude was negative, and so was the attitude of the guards.

"What can you do with this old place?" they asked.

"They were waiting for a Messiah to come along with a bag full of money," Wilkinson said.

The Messiah in this case was without cash. But in two months, using the rubble from the retaining wall, inmate labor, and other materials scrounged from wherever, the yard had bleachers.

By May, the inmates could go to that area after supper every evening instead of just on weekends. And they could walk. They weren't marched stiffly to the gymnasium for movies, and then marched back to cell-blocks.

And during the day, they walked to their jobs.

"Nobody marches any more," Wilkinson said, and noted the consternation in the eyes of the guards.

New projects were begun. Useless old buildings, eyesores and security hazards, were razed. And the inmates were zealous in their labors.

Now the problem became one of restraint.

"You couldn't go too fast—turn everything upside down," Wilkinson recalled. Improvements had to be gradual.

There followed a pre-fabricated building for inmate activities; a music room, card tables, weight lifting station, a miniature golf course, baseball, softball, basketball. A local league in Jefferson City now plays many of its games inside the walls.

"Our recreation program," Wilkinson said, "is one of the best in the nation."

Three months after Wilkinson arrived, so did the new warden.

Harold Swenson had answered Wilkinson's summons. They'd worked together many years in the federal system, and built much mutual respect.

Now the problem was to instill that same kind of confidence in the staff. Initiative was needed up and down the line.

It came slowly and was evidenced in funny ways. Perhaps the breakthrough was when someone stooped down, picked up and disposed of a dead pigeon instead of walking over it.

Already crystallizing in Wilkinson's mind was a plan to conduct extensive "middle management" training of staff members. Outsiders would be brought in from all walks of life to help get across the message. That would come in due time.

A more pressing order of business was to take food service, always a critical and sensitive problem, out of the hands of a cartel of inmates. A food strike had to be broken, and was.

Physically, the dining facilities were "atrocious."

There was only one entrance and when they all went out, there was the cacophony of steel trays banging against steel garbage drums.

"You couldn't believe the noise," Wilkinson said.

Architecturally, the problem was tremendous in the ancient compound. But Wilkinson found a way—new exits, new walkways, new systems, inmate labor.

Conveniently deployed milk dispensers—all you want. Festively lighted commercial beer signs—without the beer. Cleanliness. Better food.

"It doesn't sound like much," Wilkinson said, "but it was tremendously important."

Train the supervisors. Get it across to them somehow that they have responsibilities.

"Now I would match that staff with any staff anywhere in the world," Wilkinson said.

"They have the ability now to recognize responsibility and to assume it."

The hospital got its turn as number one priority, and the legislature was receptive. New positions were authorized, but even then the job was enormous. Recruiting doctors and nurses and technicians to work in a prison hospital isn't easy.

But it came, gradually, like everything else.

"Today it's a splendid hospital. Where can you or I call and get an appointment with a doctor or dentist within an hour?" Wilkinson asked. "Or a psychiatrist."

Throughout this period, he was pouring reports into Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' office.

The first one, three weeks after he arrived, closed with the appraisal, "one thing is clear, we have an interesting job ahead."

In 1965, only a handful of inmates in the various correctional institutions were afforded educational opportunities. The latest figures on Wilkinson's desk showed 1,744 or about half the system's population enrolled in academic courses or vocational training.

The nostalgic review wasn't all triumphant. "There were disappointments, too."

"It seems like we spent most of our time putting out brush fires and repairing pipes," Wilkinson said, "both literally and figuratively."

There wasn't fast enough progress in raising staff salaries so that full time continuity could be achieved. Guards would work willingly in the winter months, but abandon the system as soon as spring came to take more lucrative jobs in the construction trade.

Despite efforts to hire blacks, Wilkinson said, too few have come and stayed.

And there was the escape of James Earl Ray from the penitentiary, a story which took on international substance months later when Ray was convicted of the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Looking back on that tragic episode, Wilkinson furrowed a brow.

"I'm still puzzled about that. I have very real doubts that it was a one-man operation. No where in Ray's record is there anything to indicate racial bias."

Wilkinson was conferring with Missouri officials in St. Louis the night Lloyd Leo Anderson was executed in the gas chamber early in 1965, the last man to be executed in Missouri. None has been executed during his tenure and Wilkinson has testified before legislative committees in behalf of bills to abolish capital punishment.

He has also recommended revision of Missouri's sentencing laws and procedures, maintaining long terms without hope of parole breed violence and thwart rehabilitation efforts. But Missouri has been slow to move toward his philosophy.

Nor does Missouri have the maximum security prison he has been advocating for years, although funding is now being considered by the legislature.

If the facility's prospects were good, Wilkinson said he might have delayed his retirement. It is the key to other reforms throughout the state's penal system, he said.

He may yet see it in operation, however, since Fred Wilkinson isn't the kind of man to really retire. He'll be doing some consulting work for the American Correctional Association and these duties undoubtedly will bring him back to the state from time to time.
